Some of the Features at Beaconsfield Championship

The 22nd Annual Amateur Championship, under the auspices of The Royal Canadian Golf Association, played over the Beaconsfield course at Pointe Claire, Montreal, June 28th to July 3rd, was marked by many outstanding features.

First and foremost, perhaps, was the presence for the first time in the history of the Championship of a representative number of players from the West. The East generally speaking, knew little of the playing ability of the West and was possibly in certain quarters disposed to under-estimate it. The West did not come to Beaconsfield by any manner of means with its full fighting strength, but it showed the golfing stuff that was in it, even into the finals, and as a result to-day the East knows the golfing West, and knowing it has genuine admiration for it.

On the other hand there undoubtedly was an irritation in the West to some extent against the East, owing to a prevalent idea that the Eastern golfer would not recognize the West as a suitable place for the holding of a championship. The sporting manner in which Eastern representatives, in the majority at the annual meeting, voted unanimously for Winnipeg for the 1921 Championship, decisively disproved another fallacy. So East has met West and West has met East, and both are all the better for the meeting. There is no longer any room for petty prejudices or jealousies. The big golfing family of the Dominion is to-day in perfect harmony, and to that extent alone the Championship at Beaconsfield was well worth while.

The visit of a number of clever U. S. golfers was another intensely interesting feature; the wonderful form displayed by young Mr. McCulloch, of Beaconsfield, demonstrating as it certainly does, that Canadian golf is no longer entirely dependent upon its "Old Guard" and its "25 and 30 year olders," might well be cited as still one more outstanding incident. In contra-distinction, Mr. George S. Lyon's wonderful golf should not pass unnoticed. There is a difference of just 44 years between the ages of the young champion undoubtedly to be, and the eight-times former champion, but they were both breaking into the seventies every day. Can any other sport in the world point to two such remarkable age-extremes of unquestioned competency?

Of the course and club house at Beaconsfield, and the charming hospitality of its President, Mr. D. R. Brown, and his Board of Directors, praise nothing but praise.

But after all the dominating feature was the coming together of the East and the West. The Beaconsfield meeting was in this respect an epoch.

British Women Golfers Superior to Those On This Continent. Although it is a debatable question, a very debatable question, indeed, whether British men golfers to-day are superior to the men golfers of this continent, as they indubitably were in the past, there can be no question whatever but that the women of the United Kingdom can still justly lay claim to excelling their golfing sisters of North America.

So eminent an authority as Miss Marion Hollins, one of the leading United States women golfers, who was among the contestants in the recent English championship, and made the best showing of any of the overseas entrants, is perfectly willing to admit this fact. Recently interviewed in London by Miss E. E. Helmes, editress of "Golf Illustrated," Miss Hollins is reported as saying:

"Why, yes, the whole standard over here is much higher than it is in the States. Your general standard of length is higher, and then your players are much more finished, they know much more of the finer points of the game than the majority of American players do. You see you start younger; I wouldn't start myself when I had a chance at thirteen, and we don't start till we've finished school. And, anyway, golf isn't a game that's played so generally with us, we're much more liable to play tennis."

"Another thing that lowers our standard is that it's the exception for our players to be long hitters, nobody is long except Lillian Hyde, the Curtis sisters and myself, and so at our championship our tees get put short, as otherwise people complain that an unfair advantage is being given to the players who are the exceptions and in the minority. That lowers the standard; you don't want impossible carries, but you do want something to make you hit out."

"But really I think that Alexa Stirling could hold her own over here; I think she is just about as good as Mollie Griffiths and plays very much the same sort of game—no, not the same style, but the results are very much alike. No, she is not particularly long, but she's long enough, and she gets a good distance with her iron clubs. About Cecil Leitch, why, yes, of course I do think her the best golfer, and I'll tell you what strikes me most about her: It's the firmness that she hits the shots with, whether it's wood or iron. It's something about that wrist as she hits it which impresses me. That's also very much so with little approaches; even before she's hit it you're pretty sure it's going to go firmly."

And Miss Florence Harvey, writing to the "Canadian Golfer" from Madeira, en route for South Africa, after taking part in the Newcastle championship, says:

"British women's golf is better than ever, and there are several young players who will help Miss Leitch guard the cup from all comers for a long time to come."

The records made by the women golfers of the two countries in the championships certainly bear out the contention of the British woman's supremacy on the links. A United States or Canadian representative has never made even a half decent showing on the courses of the United Kingdom. On the other hand, British representatives have swept the field whenever they have entered for championships here. Mrs. Hurd (Miss Dorothy Campbell), won the Canadian championship three years in succession, 1910, 1911 and 1912. She also captured the U. S. championship in 1909 and 1910. Mrs. Dobell (Miss Gladys Ravenscroft), won the U. S. championship in 1913, Miss Hollins, who is quoted above, being the runner-up, and in 1913 Mrs. Macbeth (Miss Muriel Dodd), annexed the Canadian championship. Seven times, therefore, have fair golfers from the British Isles won chief honors here, besides capturing minor events without number.

But, as in the case of the men, it is safe to predict that in the years to come the women of the United States and Canada will overcome this decisive lead of their cousins across the sea. To secure supremacy in golf it is absolutely necessary to be "caught young." As so succinctly pointed out by Miss Hollins, the Britisher "starts younger." In this country and the States it is comparatively only a few years since the game was taken up seriously by the fair sex. To-day it is especially pleasing to note, the younger element are to be seen in increasing numbers on all the golf courses, and in them rests the future hope of an improving standard of play and the ability to win International events. The U. S. lady champion, Miss Alexa Stirling, is a very striking example of the value of learning the rudiments of the game very early in life. Like all the great British women golfers, she was not in her 'teens when she commenced to swing a club, and as claimed by Miss Hollins, she possibly alone, of American women golfers, is capable of giving the Britishers any kind of an argument.

"One of the main details to watch in handling a young golfer," says Stewart Maiden, "is not to over-instruct. Correct his main faults, but let him work out his own style." As the canny Scot was the instructor of Miss Stirling, "Bobbie" Jones and Percy Adair, anything he states in connection with juvenile training is worthy of every consideration.

In a personal letter to the Editor, Miss Florence Harvey writes:

Miss Mackenzie did awfully well in the English championship, and I was very proud of her. I did better than I expected, not having thought golf for so long, but that was due to Miss Cecil Leitch's kindness of heart for she took me out the day before the championship and tried to put me on some sort of game again. This is by no means an isolated instance, for she is always ready to lend a hand to any fellow golfer who wants one. It is a pity the characteristic is not more often met with in the good players throughout the world. Most of them are too absorbed in their own golf before a tournament to care to go out and help others get onto their game.

Many happy returns of the day to Mr. George S. Lyon, who, on the 27th of this month is 62 years old. The "Grand Young Man" of Canadian golf has already placed himself on record that he will be at the Championship in Winnipeg in 1921. He has fought in the West (he was in the Riel Rebellion Expeditionary Force), but he has never played golf in the West. He can rest assured of a reception there that even he has never yet been accorded.

Winnipeg and Calgary are both now on the golfing map.

Beaconsfield made a name for itself last September in connection with the Ladies' Championship. She made a record for itself this month in connection with the Amateur.

Mr. George Cyril Cassels, of London, assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal, who was recently appointed with Sir George Perley and Mr. J. H. Gundy, of Toronto, to represent Canada at the International Financial Conference at Brussels, was born in England, near Bath, but when quite young came to Toronto with his father, who in 1865, was appointed manager there of the B. B. N. A. Mr. Cassels early entered the service of the Bank of Montreal, and his advancement was rapid. He is very keen on golf and is a member of Sunningdale and the very exclusive Swinley Forest Golf Clubs.

Grantland Rice, in the "American Golfer," just before the Open Championship in an article entitled "Can Hagen Tame the Lion?" said:

"He combines the five great essentials required for success—Skill, Courage, Physical Stamina, Experience and Confidence. Broad-shouldered, deep-chested, thick of wrists, with cool judgment and a confident control over his nervous system, Hagen has the greatest chance to win that any American has ever known."

And the hope of America managed, after a mighty effort, to squeeze into 18th place!

He is a bold man who makes a golfing prophecy.

Mr. R. A. Gardner, who so nearly last month annexed the English Amateur Championship, was the first man in the world to clear 13 feet in the pole vault. He twice won inter-collegiate championships in Harvard-Yale and Yale-Princeton meets, in addition to his dual win of the U. S. Golf Amateur Championship. Altogether the plucky U. S. collegian is one of the greatest amateur athletes America has ever produced. It must not be forgotten, either, that in Great Britain he had to forego on the links there the Schnectady putter which he has been using for some years now. But Gardner is the last one to bring that forward as an excuse for his defeat by Cyril J. Tolley at Muirfield.

Mr. R. E. Howard, the well known English writer, points out that it is fine evidence of Mr. Lloyd George's importance as a golfer that the only perpetual tribute instituted in his honour in France is a golfing tribute. It is a tablet beside the teeing ground of one of the short holes at Nice, and it announces proudly that on such-and-such a date—it was nearly ten years ago—"Mr. Lloyd George did this hole in one." The Prime Minister, by the way, is an 18 handicap man. He does not take his golf at all seriously, but talks so light heartedly during the round that he does not always know how the game stands—but he at least enjoys himself thoroughly.

A despatch from Winnipeg says:

Mr. J. H. Woods, of the Calgary Golf and Country Club, while in the city recently, donated a handsome cup to the Manitoba Golf Association for foursomes to be played for during the Manitoba championships.

Mr. Woods, who is managing editor of the Calgary "Herald," is doing much for golf these days in the West. It was his paper that this season donated a cup for Foursome competitions between the Alberta clubs, and now he has donated a $150 cup to the Manitoba Association for a similar event. Mr. Woods, who is an ex-president of the Canadian Press Association, is a member of The Canadian Seniors' Golf Association.

The new Prime Minister of Canada, the Hon. Arthur Meighen is, like most statesmen now-a-days, a golfer. Mrs. Meighen is also an enthusiastic follower of the game.

Mr. Robert A. Gardner, who so nearly captured the British Amateur, recently returned to the States and cannot speak too highly of the reception he and his compatriots were given in England and Scotland. He especially mentions the notable "red-coat" dinner tendered the Americans in London. Tolley, he says, takes tremendous trouble over his putting, virtually stretching his whole length on the ground in sighting a putt. Gardner, who was a member of the U. S. Committee of Rules, says they were met more than half way by the Britishers, and he is confident a satisfactory solution will eventually be arrived at in regard to many vexed questions.

The Royal Montreal Club is to be heartily congratulated on the progressive step it has recently taken in deciding to extend and improve its present course and build a second 18 hole course, besides erecting a magnificent new club house. The premier golf club of the continent in future will not only be premier in name but premier also as regards club house and courses. Golf in the past in Canada has owed much to The Royal Montreal, and by its progressiveness this year it is going to do much for golf in the future. Two full championship 18 holes courses, a new club house beyond compare, and the Amateur Championship of Canada to its credit! What more can a club desire?

The Royal Canadian Golf Association is fortunate in its selection of Presidents. Take the last few years for instance. Mr. Frank A. Rolph, of Lambton, Toronto, was in the Presidential chair throughout the war years. His work for the Red Cross golf funds and at the championships last season, called for unstinted praise. It was generally considered that it would take a remarkable man to follow in his footsteps. Mr. David R. Brown, of Beaconsfield, Montreal, was that man, and he has amply justified the choice. The Presidential chair has never been occupied in a more able manner. And the new President is Col. Paul J. Myler, of the Hamilton Golf and Country Club, an outstanding figure in the golfing, financial and social life of Ontario. A triumvirate of Presidents the past few years, certainly that any association might envy.

In the Quebec Provincial Championship at the Country Club, Montreal, last month, there were no fewer than 163 entries, including twelve professional entries and seven assistant professionals, with 48 ladies for the Friday's meeting and 96 men for the Amateur and Handicap on Saturday. On Saturday evening the prizes were awarded to the winners, which closed the first meeting of the P. of Q. Golf Association, which was easily the best and most representative meeting of the Montreal and District players that has been held. The former Montreal and District Golf Association was succeeded by the P. of Q. Golf Association this year, it having been deemed advisable to include the other clubs in the Province, and this meeting, though being the first of the new Association, was the eighth annual meeting of the former association which was established in 1909, but which held no competitions in the years of 1914-15-16 and 1917. All the contestants were loud in their praises of the Country Club and the hospitality of its members.

LADIES' CHAMPIONSHIP AT NEWCASTLE

Miss Florence Harvey Writes Delightfully of the Event—High Praise for Miss Ada Mackenzie—British Women Golfers Still Supreme—A Plea for the Canadian Ladies' Championship to be Thrown Open to All Comers

FROM on board the R.M.S. "Carisbrook Castle," Union Castle Line, under date of June 1st, at Madeira, en route for her new home at Pietermaritzburg, Natal, South Africa, the Editor is in receipt of the following characteristically delightful letter from Miss Florence Harvey, Canadian lady champion 1903 and 1904, and runner-up in 1911 and 1913, and for two years before going to Serbia, in connection with war work, Editress of the "Canadian Golfer":

Well Known Golfer and Golf Writer, Miss Florence Harvey, who took part in the British Ladies' Championship, en route to her new home in South Africa.

"As the reports of the British Ladies' Championship will have reached Canada long before these lines can do so, I am going to give merely impressions, especially those which may be of use in regard to Canadian golf.

First of all, Canadians have every reason to be proud of their champion, Miss Ada Mackenzie, who made a most favorable impression in every way, and who may be quite sure of a warm welcome in any future tournament in the Old Country. One can only regret that the luck of the draw brought all the Americans and one Canadian very close together, and that Miss Mackenzie had to meet two representatives of the Stars and Stripes in turn. It would have been more satisfactory if she could have measured her game against some of the British players, because it would have given a better idea of her standing. Miss Mackenzie knows as well as any of us, so I have no hesitation in saying it, that the standard over in the Old Country is infinitely higher than ours, but there is no need for us to be ashamed of that, because Miss Leitch, Miss Griffiths, Miss Bastin, Miss Jackson, and others, demonstrated that there is no fear that the supremacy of British women's golf will be endangered for some time, by any invaders.

Those who have followed American golf of late years know that Mrs. Vanderbeck, U. S. A. champion, 1915, has long been recognized as the steadiest and most consistent of the American women golfers. Also that Miss Mildred Caverly and Miss Hollins were the two most promising of the younger school, the former being the more brilliant, with a sound game right through. In the tournament at Newcastle, Miss Hollins demonstrated, even among those long-driving British girls, that she could hit the ball as far as any. In fact, she was just short of the first green, 507 yards, on one occasion with a drive and a brassie. It was therefore a very conclusive answer to those who block the opening of the Canadian Women's Championship to all comers on the ground that Canada has no chance against the States, when Miss Mackenzie defeated Miss Caverly and gave Mrs. Vanderbeck such a hard match, which with a little more luck on the putting green would have gone further, or even ended differently.

In all these remarks about the American players I am excepting Miss Alexa Stirling, whom I have heard described by several people who know the games of all of them, as by no means "head and shoulders" above these others that newspaper reports of late years have pictured her, but that while undeniably the best United States has yet produced, there is not such a margin of difference that we have been lead to believe. I am not stating my own opinion, for I have never seen her play, but quoting that of several who certainly ought to know, having seen them all play. The reason I have done so is that Canadians may appreciate Miss Mackenzie's effort properly, and have less fear that the Canadian Cup, if once over the border, could "never come back."

Look at the plucky French women, among whom games are so new, carrying off tennis championships, and competing every year for their own golf title against the best women golfers of the world from across the Channel. Do you suppose that hard-fought final in the past French Championship between Miss Cecil Leitch and Miss Bastin, did not inspire French women to improve? They have the right idea: until we can defend it successfully let the National title be held by an outsider, so long as it brings us better players to compete with from whom we can learn so much. After all, no one but a British champion has taken the Canadian from us yet. Personally, Miss Mackenzie's 88 in the stroke competition at Newcastle, which put her in sixth place, is worth more to her as a golfing achievement than winning the Canadian closed championship. I will try to give you some idea of the class of the golfers who made 100 or less that day:

83—Miss Cecil Leitch, twice British, twice English, twice French Champion.

85—Miss. M. Alexander, the most brilliant of the Irish younger school, a terrific driver.

86—Miss Janet Jackson, the best Irish player since Miss May Hezlett and Miss Rhona Adiar, who won the Irish Championship the last three times played and probably (as I write) has had her fourth victory; also a terribly long player.

87—Mrs. Temple Dobell (Miss Gladys Ravenscroft), medalist, British 1910, winner 1912, runner-up 1914, American champion 1913.

87—Mrs. Olaf Flambro (Miss Martin-Smith), recognized before the war as the most brilliant of the rising players, won the stroke competition against all the best players at Ranelagh, April of this year, and favorite for the championship.

88—Miss Ada Mackenzie, Canadian champion.

89—Miss Gladys Bastin, a fine golfer with a perfect temperament for match play, who, with Miss Griffiths, ranks as the best of all the rising players. Won the Girls' Championship before the war while still a "flapper;" has had the unique distinction since of having taken Miss Cecil Leitch to the 35th and 17th holes of the British and French Championships, 1919, and the only person who took her to the second to last hole in this British. It was the only match in which there seemed the possibility of Miss Leitch being beaten, for her opponent was holding her own well through the field and rattling down long putts in the most confident manner. It was a delightful match to watch apart from the fine golf for this was their third hard fight in succession and they are the best of friends with a great respect and admiration for the golf the other is capable of producing.

90—Mrs. Alan Macbeth (Miss Muriel Dodd), British and Canadian champion, 1913.

90—Miss Jean Alexander, younger sister of Miss M. Alexander, and a very promising player.

90—Miss Molly Griffiths, who began to make her name last year in county golf, and whose extraordinary golf through the Newcastle tournament has won her undying fame at 22 years of age. Her 46 for twelve holes against Miss Winn in the second round would have won even from the majority of good men players and held many of the best. 36 out on that long course where Vardon said if he got a 35 it more than satisfied him. Miss Leitch was 37 out the same day against Mrs. Hezlett.

90—Mrs. F. W. Brown, Irish-English champion, and for years considered the possessor of the most uncanny short game in existence.

91—Miss Doris Chambers, former bronze medalist in the British; champion of India, 1913, and English Internationalist for years. One of the longest drivers and iron players who has ever lived.

92—Miss D. Fraser, who never uses a wooden club except from the tee, but whose long cleek shots combined with an excellent short game and a never-say-die spirit, won her a well deserved bronze medal the next week.

93—Miss Edith Leitch, a very fine golfer, though rather over-shadowed by her sister. She has a speciality for taking opponents past the home hole, and lost during the championship only to a perfect 4 (par 5) from Miss Griffiths at the 19th.

94—Mrs. Louis Gotto, Irish Internationalist.

94—Miss E. Helme, English Internationalist, and for years a famous member of the Surrey team, to whom it is never a disgrace to lose and from whom always an honor to win.

94—Lady Rigby (Miss Flora Macbeth), who is always a hard player to beat.

94—Mrs. Hutton (Miss Violet Hezlett), a member of the famous Irish golfing family, runner-up to Miss D. Campbell in the British at Portrush, 1911, Irish Internationalist with a beautiful short game.

94—Mrs. Cruise, a strong player from Walton Heath.

95—Miss Marion Hollins (U. S. A.), Metropolitan champion, runner-up in American to Miss Ravenscroft in 1913.

95—Mrs. Stuart French, a long-driving Irish player.

95—Miss Caverly (U. S. A.)

96—Mrs. Vanderbeck (U. S. A. champion, 1915).

98—Mrs. Madill (Miss Lauder), Irish Internationalist, a very strong player.

98—Miss F. L. Harvey, Canada.

100—Mrs. Lionel Jackson, former Kent champion, and an Irish Internationalist for years. Has a beautiful short game.

100—Mrs. Cramsie (Miss F. Hezlett), after her sister "May" the most famous of the Hezletts. Has an almost perfect swing, and is said to have a collection of silver medals to equal her sister's gold ones. Known for years as "The Unluckiest of Golfers," because in so many finals but never a winner.

As for the final over 36 holes at Newcastle there has never been anything like it in the history of women's golf. To be beaten 7 and 6 sounds one-sided, but gives no idea of the type of golf played. In one sense it was one-sided, in that Miss Leitch never looked like losing, but Miss Griffiths played golf that would have won most championships, even the British, sticking to a hopeless task so bravely that she actually went out in 40, only 2 strokes over par and one stroke better than her opponent, after ending the first round six holes down. There was a bunker at the 12th which seemed to have a strange fascination for her drive, having caught it in four successive rounds. The only criticism of her game that day was her effort to get too great a distance out of it, but after all, she may be forgiven that, because attempting the impossible seemed the only hope against the relentless machine-like quality of Miss Leitch's golf that day, and only a marvellous shot to follow an indifferent one could help the plucky young Sunningdale golfer. By which it must not be understood that Miss Griffiths played inexperienced golf; on the contrary her game that day was worthy of the best golf seen in any previous final, but it availed her nothing any more than Miss Winn's really splendid game against Miss Griffiths 46 for 12 holes in the second round saved her being beaten 8 and 6.

As for the champion in the final. She took no chances. Knowing Miss Griffith's possibilities she began to strive for a lead from the first tee, winning the first, second and third holes in par 5, 4, 4, but was down to one up at the 7th. Two "4's" again put her three up at the turn, and out in 40, though with an indifferent half in "6" at the 4th and a "4" to a "2" at the 6th. Then followed two holes halved in 3 and 4, Miss Leitch being stymied at the latter, where the short putt would have made her four up. The fifteenth is my favourite hole on the course having a long drive up hill and only a terrific second shot straight up the narrow pathway between two yawning chasms can bring the ball near the green. Miss Leitch proceeded to play it thus and a half at the 16th, a perfect 4 at the 17th, and a good half in 5 at the 18th left her six up at the end of the first round.

Even with this awful load to carry, Miss Griffiths started out in the afternoon playing serene, confident golf, and by means of another perfect "2" at the 6th, a beautifully played 7th and 8th, had reduced the lead to 4. Two better played drives at the blind 9th could not be imagined, lying each a few feet from the flag 218 yards over a high hill. Then Miss Leitch, with that capacity for doing the needful thing so characteristic of her game since the war, holed for a two, while Miss Griffiths' ball stayed on the edge. Another "2" to a "3" at the 10th, 180 yards, was merciless, but was followed by her only missed drive when the ball struck the face of the high hill and rolled back. Miss Griffiths, instead of cracking, as might have been expected, carried it beautifully, but, fine as Miss Leitch's ordinary shots are, her recoveries are what rouse the greatest interest in the gallery. Having every known golfing shot at her command, she is never at a loss, and apparently can get a good shot from anywhere and follow it with an extra effort, like the extraordinary brassie shot that put her on the green in "3" at this hole and enabled her to halve it. Miss Griffiths' favourite bunker at the next left Miss Leitch a few feet from the flag with several shots to spare, so the plucky runner-up did not ask her to hole out.

So Miss Ada Mackenzie goes back to Canada having seen the finest golf yet played by a woman, and able to certify that with the present British champion as the only L. G. U. scratch player, it is well worth while trying to earn a handicap approaching a single figure from Miss Cecil Leitch. Other Canadians will rejoice with me that Miss Mackenzie herself, in the stroke competition, played within two strokes of her own C. L. G. U. handicap on that long and testing course (par 80).

The 1920 Newcastle tournament certainly produced three records: The best golf yet, a glorious course amid wonderful scenery, and the unequalled welcome and hospitality of our Irish hosts, whose one fear seemed to be that we might find one moment that was not crowded with enjoyment, but we never did.

AN INTERESTING DINNER

A VERY interesting dinner took place on Thursday night, July 1st, at The Royal Montreal Golf Club in celebration of a celebrated cricket match which took place forty years ago on Dominion Day on the Rideau Hall grounds, Ottawa. The hosts of the dinner were Mr. A. Browning and Mr. W. R. Baker, C.V.O., whilst among the guests was Mr. W. E. Torrance, of Montreal. All three took part in the cricket match of forty years ago, Mr. Browning playing for Montreal against Ottawa, making the magnificent total of 204 runs, the former eleven defeating the latter by 272 runs. This 204 was the cricket record for America until 13 years later, when Mr. A. M. Wood, of Philadelphia, scored 278, to be followed the following year by Mr. G. S. Lyons' 238 not out, which still constitutes the Canadian cricket record. Of the 22 men who took part in the match of July 1st, 1880, only seven are now living and nearly all of them are to-day well-known golfers. Needless to say, the veteran cricketers at this fortieth dinner anniversary had no end of an interesting time recalling days lang syne with bat and ball.

GOLF AT IROQUOIS FALLS

Big Paper Company is Building an Up-to-date 9-Hole Course

AND here is another big paper company building a golf course for its employees and friends, following the example of the Laurentide Company at Grand Mere, which has one of the finest courses in the Province of Quebec. The Abitibi Power and Paper Company has extensive mills at Iroquois Falls, Ont., and recently instructed Willie Park to lay out a course there. The course when completed will be turned over to a club to be formed, but will be built in the meantime entirely at the expense of the Company. It will be a 9-hole course, located immediately adjoining the town of Iroquois Falls, so that it will be of easy access without the use of any conveyance.

Work is proceeding under Park's plans and specifications. It is not expected the work will progress far enough this season so that the course can be used, but it will be in shape for play early in the summer of 1921.

The "Canadian Golfer" cannot speak too highly in praise of the Directors of Abitibi in thus giving their employees such a wonderful chance to enjoy the health-giving game of golf. Other large firms in the Dominion could to advantage follow in their footsteps.

TWO EIGHTEEN HOLE COURSES

And a Magnificent New Club House is the Splendid Programme of The Royal Montreal Golf Club. Total Cost will be over $400,000.

ON Monday evening, June 21st, at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, a special meeting of the members of The Royal Montreal Golf Club was held, there being an attendance of over 100.

The President of the Club, Mr. W. R. Baker, C.V.O., was in the chair and explained the object of the meeting, namely, to receive the report of the Special Committee appointed some months ago in connection with the building of a new club house and the improvement of the course generally. He was convinced that the meeting was really an epoch in the history of The Royal Montreal, the oldest golf club on the continent. It was the parting of the ways—they either had to go backward or forward, and he was convinced their answer that night would not be a negative one. He then called upon Mr. D. C. Macarow as chairman of the special committee (composed of Messrs Macarow, W. R. Baker and W. H. C. Mussen, Hon. Secretary), to read the report. This he did and the members present listened to a most comprehensive presentation of all the details in connection with the new club house and with the improvement not only of the old course, but the building of an additional 18-hole course, this being rendered possible by the purchase recently of the Decary farm of some 80 acres adjoining the present property, bringing the total acreage up to 207.

After listening to the report, which covered the question both of club house and courses from every angle, the meeting, amidst much enthusiasm, unanimously endorsed the project in its entirety and the special committee having the momentous matter in hand came in for very great praise, indeed.

The plans of the new club house are most artistic. The author of them is Mr. Charles J. Saxe, A. R. C. A., of Montreal, who secured the award in close competition with other Montreal architects, Mr. Frank Darling, of Toronto, being the judge.

The main entrance to the beautiful building will be through a large stone hall-way two and a half stories high and common to both ladies and men. This hall will be one of the interesting features of the club, with stone floor and walls and winding stairs also of stone, and it has been suggested that here might be a suitable place to erect a carved memorial tablet in memory of the members who went overseas. The hall, combined with the long vista obtained through the stone-floored passageway connecting the ladies' club, will make a most interesting entrance. Off the hall on the ground floor are the Secretary's office, dressing rooms, men's private dressing rooms, men's dressing rooms and showers and professional's shop.

On the first floor are located the men's grill room and lounge, 25 x 71; billiard room 21 x 24; card room 25 x 22; common dining room 25 x 55, with bay (seating capacity 100); common lounge 25 x 63; ladies' sitting room 16 ft. 6 in. x 23 ft. 6 in.; men's gallery 15 ft. wide (dining capacity 72); common gallery 15 ft. wide (dining capacity 72); ladies' gallery; kitchen 25 x 41 and maids' dining room 16 x 26.

The second floor will be devoted to members' bedrooms 9 ft. 6 in. x 10 ft. 6 in. to 11 ft. 3 in. x 18 ft. 6 in., and 30 dressing rooms 8 x 9. In addition there will be a valet room, two telephone booths, extra bedrooms, etc.

The men's locker room will contain 440 lockers. The eight showers and their cubicles have been centrally located among the lockers, together with complete lavatory accommodation, storage for extra towels, etc. The ladies' locker room will provide for 126 lockers, two large bathrooms and one shower. The kitchen wing comprising all the working departments of the club is located directly in rear of the locker room. The dining room for chauffeurs will be situated at the west entrance, with service connections to kitchen. The boiler room will be located outside the main club house, where the noise of the fan-ventilating system cannot be heard.

Not a solitary detail both from a utilitarian and artistic standpoint has been neglected in regard to this wonderful building, which will undoubtedly rank with any country club on the continent. The estimates for construction and furnishing are $250,000, but it is hoped to slightly reduce this figure as a result of one or two changes which have been made in the original plans. Mr. Saxe, himself a member of The Royal Montreal, will certainly have a monument to his art at Dixie in the years to come.

Willie Park was instructed to re-vamp the old course and lay out the new. The Editor of the "Canadian Golfer," when in Montreal this month, had the pleasure of going over his plans and can testify to the very skilful manner in which this justly celebrated International architect has handled a rather difficult dual situation. Park provides for two courses of championship calibre, one of 6,300 yards, the other of 6,204. Clever indeed is the way he brings each 18th green to the front of the club house. There is a fine balance of 3-shot, 2-shot and 1-shot holes in each course, many of them of great character indeed. Already work has been commenced on construction, the tender for the work having been let to the well known firm of Carters Tested Seeds, Inc. Work on the new club house may be started this autumn, although the working plans will take some weeks to make out. The present club house will not have to be dismantled until the new one is completed.

It is estimated that the expenditure on the courses, etc., will come to some $170,000, so the total outlay on club house and improvements will go well over $400,000. When completed, however, The Royal Montreal members will have one of the finest golfing properties in America—one in every way worthy of the premier club.

Already the President, Mr. Baker, has received subscriptions totalling over $350,000 to the bond issue required to finance this very extensive undertaking, and there will not be the slightest trouble in raising the balance. This expansion and improvement at Dixie has for some years now been very near to his heart, and he is to be congratulated on at last seeing the fruition of plans which have entailed on his part much serious consideration and to which he has given time and attention without stint.

The old special committee having completed its labours, a new committee is now in charge of the various improvements, comprised of Mr. W. R. Baker (chairman), Mr. W. H. C. Mussen and Mr. J. J. McGill.

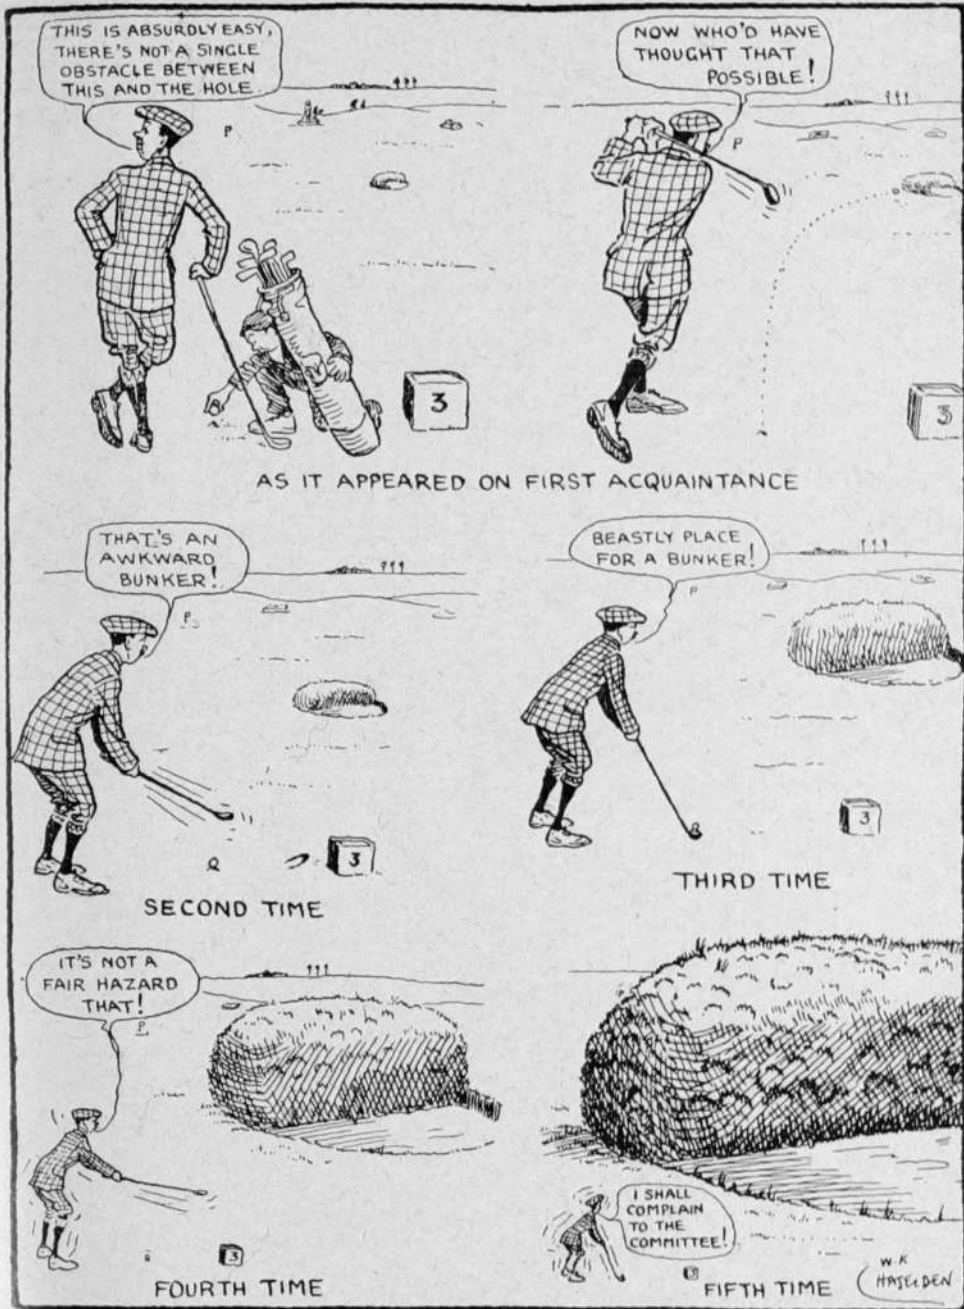

PROGRESSIVE MOOSE JAW

AT a general meeting of the Moose Jaw Golf Club arrangements for the taking over of the new club house were completed, the property having been purchased from the city. By-laws of the company were also adopted.

The club house now completed and furnished is certainly a great asset to the City, and a most comfortable home for the members. At the beginning of the season the services of Wm. Kinnear, golf architect, were secured and the golf course re-arranged so as to make full use of the natural hazards and beauty of the property. Trees have been planted, new greens have been constructed and altogether the carrying out of the present programme will give Moosejaw without doubt the finest 18-hole golf course in the Province.

It is expected that by next season improvements will have so far progressed that the Provincial Tournament will be played on the Moose Jaw Golf Course.

The Moose Jaw Golf Club has spent some $1,100 this year on its course and club house. The "Canadian Golfer" extends hearty congratulations to its officers and members on the splendid forward movement inaugurated this season.

Many Bunkers look quite insignificant until you have been in them, when they immediately begin to assume alarming proportions

CANADIAN LADIES' GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Hamilton is the Venue and the Dates September 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th and 25th.

As previously announced, the Canadian Ladies' Golf Championships will be held on the course of the Hamilton Golf and Country Club at Ancaster, Ontario. The dates have now been decided upon, and they are September 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th and 25th, inclusive. It has been decided to again restrict entries to Canadians only and the L. G. U. handicaps will be used. This is the first time the Ladies' Canadian Championships have been held in Hamilton, and, needless to say, the contestants are in for a glorious week of golf over the best course in Canada and a good time generally, as the hospitality of Hamiltonians is proverbial.

Miss Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, the present champion and holder of the superb Duchess of Connaught Gold Cup, returned this month from taking part in the English Championship, and will be at Hamilton to defend her title from scores of the best lady players from Coast to Coast.

The official programme of the Championships will be published in the August issue of the "Canadian Golfer."

WINNIPEG WINS BIRKS TROPHY

Bird's Hill Players Defeat Elmhurst 5 to 2

THE inter-club championship of Winnipeg and District Golf was won by the Winnipegs on Saturday afternoon, June 19th, in an interesting series with their near neighbors of the Elmhurst Club over the Pine Ridge course, five of the seven matches played going to the contingent from Bird's Hill. The teams were fairly evenly matched, and close contests were the order, some excellent golf being displayed by both sides, weather and other conditions being distinctly favorable.

Jack Cuthbert, amateur champion of the prairie provinces, was in excellent form, and defeated J. W. Thompson, the Elmhurst leader, by 3 up and 2 to play. Contrary to expectations, however, Matt Thompson failed to overcome the strong and steady game uncovered by Archie Campbell, who won by the same figures as the champion. E. W. Phelps took G. W. Markle to the 18th green before succumbing, while Elmhurst were put further in arrears when Frank Hale and Arthur Sullivan finished three holes out, with the Winnipeg man four up.

Tom Taylor infused a little color into the drab outlook when he won his match from J. A. O. Gemmill on the 17th green, and "Robbie" Robertson sprung the surprise of the day when he arrived home with a fair margin over President Middlemass. These were the only two bright spots in the Elmhurst card, for Col. Rattray knuckled under to A. J. Stevenson.

Following are the scores, in virtue of which the Birks' trophy, significant of Winnipeg inter-club pre-eminence, went to the Bird's Hill club house:

WINNIPEG

J. T. Cuthbert (3 and 2), 1.
A. Campbell (3 and 2), 1.
G. W. Markle (1 up), 1.
F. G. Hale (4 and 3), 1.
J. A. O. Gemmill, 0.
T. K. Middlemass, 0.
A. J. Stevenson, 1.
Total, 5.

ELMHURST

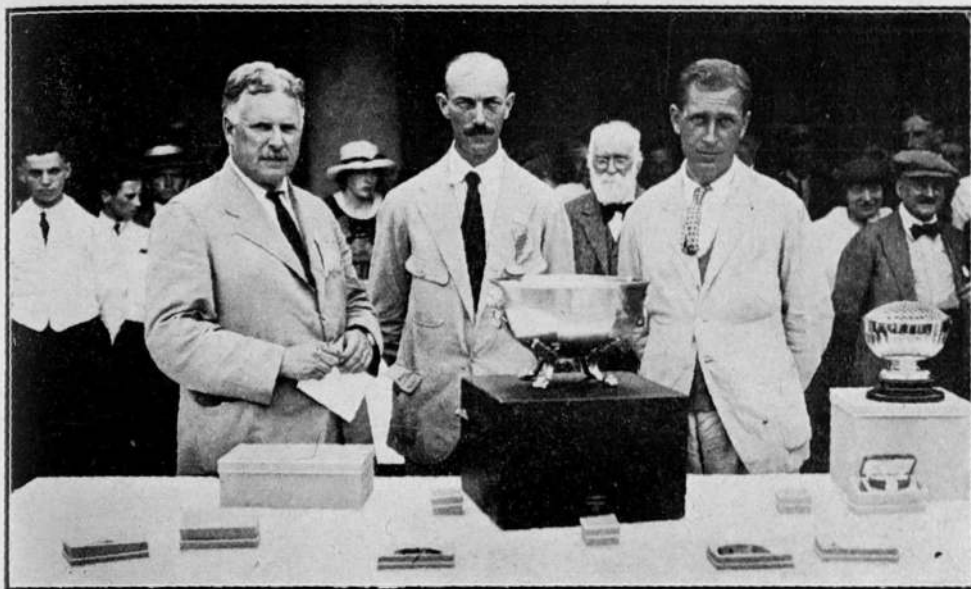

J. W. Thomson, 0.
M. Thompson, 0.
E. W. Phelps, 0.
A. Sullivan, 0.
T. S. Taylor (2 and 1), 1.
R. Robertson (4 and 3), 1.
J. G. Rattray, 0.
Total, 2.

During the course of the competition Winnipeg defeated Norwood 6 and 1, whilst Elmhurst accounted for Alerst 4 and 3.

BEACONSFIELD, Montreal, has never before this year been on the rota for a Canadian Amateur Championship, but it came irresistibly into its own the week of June 28th-July 3rd, when the 22nd annual event under the auspices of The Royal Canadian Golf Association was staged there in a manner which left nothing to be desired. Golfing history was made at Beaconsfield these latter days of June and these first days of July. East met West, even unto the finals. Youth met age and experience up to the semi-finals. An International flavour was instilled by the presence of many prominent U. S. entrants and golf was played throughout the Tournament, which demonstrated indubitably that Canada to-day has players qualified to play over any course and against any opponents, and worthily uphold the golfing honours of the Dominion.

Beaconsfield, which boasts the largest membership of any club in Canada, has a thoroughly interesting course of 6,000 odd yards. It is a particularly well balanced course and since the holding of the Ladies' Championship there last September has been greatly improved, especially as regards bunkering. To break into the seventies at Beaconsfield to-day means well placed shots from tee to green. Badly hit shots are punished as they deserve. The player has to keep religiously on the course, otherwise there is an ominous mounting of figures on the card in medal play or the loss of hole after hole in match play.

The fairgreens the first day or so of the championships were very hard, and many of the contestants found difficulty after their tee-shots both with wood and iron. But then good old Jupiter Pluvius graciously took a hand in the game, a plentiful baptism of rain rejoiced the heart of officials and contestants alike, and the latter part of the week conditions were quite ideal and golf, thrilling golf, became the order of the day. Upsets and surprises of course, there were many. That's all in a week's golf anyhow, but in the final, East met West, as everyone had fervently hoped, and the East for the nonce retained her supremacy, but judging from the excellent showing made by the dozen or so representatives at Beaconsfield it is quite on the cards that it will not be long ere the Championship travels west of Fort William.

W. J. Thompson Wins Qualifying Round

Monday, June 28th the curtain rang up on Canada's 22nd Amateur Championship under ideal weather conditions, 123 competitors taking part in the qualifying round. At Lambton last year there was nearly double that number, but at Lambton it must be remembered the handicap limitation was 18, at Beaconsfield it was 14. The field at Beaconsfield, however, although fewer in numbers, was distinctly "classier" than that of last year. All the leading figures in the contest of 1920 without exception were on hand to again battle for the championship and in addition there were many leading players from the West and the States.

From Baltimore came E. Clark Cochran, the brilliant young Baltimore player, who in 1916 at Merion in the U. S. Amateur made "Chick" Evans extend himself in the semi-finals to register a 3 and 2 victory. Fresh from winning the Rhode Island Championship came F. M. Hancock, of Rhode Island. Brice S. Evans, of Boston, runner-up to G. S. Lyon at Ottawa in 1914 was on hand once more to try for Canadian honours. So also was Harold Farrington, good golfer and brilliant journalist, of Providence, and G. H. Collett, of the same city. J. T. Cuthbert, of Winnipeg, Saskatchewan and Manitoba champion and holder of many Western course records, T. Gillespie, of Calgary, a former open champion of Alberta and a former amateur champion of Manitoba who last year won the coveted gold medal at the autumn meeting of the Royal and Ancient at St. Andrews, Scotland, were present to uphold the honour of the West and were backed up by such strong players as C. W. Hague, of Calgary, Douglas Laird, of Winnipeg, runner-up to G. S. Lyon in the Canadian amateur in 1906, Matthew Thompson, of Winnipeg, and F. F. Tribe, K. C. Allen, A. Campbell, F. G. Hale and T. K. Middlemass, of the same city, the latter the President of the Manitoba Golf Association. For the first time the Maritime Provinces also had their representatives. In all a goodly company.

It was freely predicted that two 92's, or a total of 184, would qualify for the championship, but better golf than that had to be played to get into the charmed circle of sixty-four. As it eventually turned out, 175 was the figure and half a dozen good men who had notched 176 were left in the Consolation discard.

Sharp at 8.30 Monday morning Mr. James L. McCulloch, the Hon. Secretary of the R. C. G. A., sent the first couple off from the tee and from then on champions that had been and champions that would be, drove off, at intervals of four minutes. Unfortunately, in the morning a severe congestion occurred at the second tee, and as a result the schedule became a bit dislocated. At Lambton, owing to the huge field, the qualifying round was cut down to 18 holes. At Beaconsfield it was 36 holes. The delay in the morning naturally re-acted on the starting time in the afternoon and the last couple did not leave the first tee on their second round until after 6 p.m., necessitating finishing up in the dark. However, the late arrivals took it all very good naturedly, and considering the large field the officials are to be congratulated on the manner in which the Handicap—the most difficult event of a Championship to handle—was run off. It all goes to prove, however, that owing to the tremendous increase in the number of players in Canada, that a further stiffening of the handicap limit is necessary. Next year it certainly should be reduced to 10 at least, as previously urged in these columns.

All the favourites came through with flying colours. There was not an upset. That sterling golfer, W. J. Thompson, of Mississauga, winner of the Toronto District and much fancied for the Championship, headed the list with two well put together scores of 77—76=153. Trailing him 3 strokes only was the Dominion's most popular golfer, George S. Lyon, who followed up an 80 with a splendidly played 76 for a total of 156. Then came Stanley Thompson, of Mississauga, who collected an 81 and 77=158. One stroke behind him was Seymour Lyon, of Lambton, 80—79=159. It will thus be noticed that four Toronto men headed the list—a sort of Thompson-Lyon "sandwich" effect.

The first Easterner to come in with a good score was C. B. Grier, of The Royal Montreal. He had 160, as also had "Clark" Cochran, of Baltimore. J. H. McCulloch, of Beaconsfield, who afterwards was destined to provide the sensation of the Championship, notched an 84, followed by a capital 77, for a total of 161. A Wilson, ex-amateur champion and E. S. Merrett, runner-up to George S. Lyon in the Seniors' Championship in 1918, both of the Royal Montreal, also had scores of 161. F. B. Hoblitzell, of Sarnia, who in the International match last year defeated W. C. Fownes, Sidney Morgan, of Beaconsfield, and Marcus Greer, of Grand Mere, tied for 10th place with 162. One stroke behind them came G. H. Turpin, runner-up for the Championship last year, J. T. Cuthbert, Winnipeg; J. L. Lewis, Brantford, and R. Henderson, of Oshawa. The latter, who learned his game in Scotland, had a first round of 87, but followed this up with a 76, which tied the best round of the day. He had a very good chance to make a 74, but threw away a couple of strokes on the last two holes. Another champion, F. R. Martin, of Hamilton, tied with F. F. Tribe, of Winnipeg, at

Mississauga Wins The Team Match

The team matches were also decided by the Qualifying Round. The Royal Montreal four were the first to complete the 36 holes with anything like a winning score, namely, 653. The three Thompson brothers of Mississauga reported with 475, which left H. S. Reid, who was still out on the links, a total of 177 to win for that club. He, however, did two better than that, and Mississauga captured chief honours by three strokes over the representatives of the premier club. The scores of the four principal teams:

 George S. Lyon, Lambton, vs. E. C. Cochran, Baltimore.
 Jess Applegath, Mississauga, vs. Wm. McLuckie, Kanawaki.

 G. H. Turpin, Royal Montreal, vs. E. R. L. Henry-Anderson, Beaconsfield.
 F. F. Tribe, Winnipeg, vs. W. R. Campbell, Essex.
 L. S. Peck, Royal Montreal, vs. R. B. Chillas, Beaconsfield.
 W. J. Thompson, Mississauga, vs. R. Henderson, Oshawa.

 Douglas Laird, St. Charles, Winnipeg, vs. A. Hutchison, Royal Montreal.
 C. W. Hague, Calgary, vs. B. L. Anderson, Lambton.
 Maurice Hodgson, Royal Montreal, vs. F. G. Hale, Winnipeg.

As regards the upper and lower brackets, there was about an even division of the favourites. When it came to individual matches it was generally thought that the Lyon and Cochran game would be the hardest fought contest of the morning; and so it proved. Other good matches it was conceded would be Gillespie vs. Evans, Martin vs. M. Thompson, Reith vs. Marcus Greer and Laird vs. A. Hutchison.

In the big pool on Monday night, W. J. Thompson had the honour of ruling favourite, closely followed by G. H. Turpin. G. S. Lyon, J. T. Cuthbert, C. B. Grier and many others also came in for a lot of support. It was a record pool, but then everything was of a record nature at Beaconsfield.

A large gallery followed the Lyon-Cochran game and witnessed one of the best matches of the whole tournament. The young Baltimore player drives a tremendous ball and for once the ex-champion found himself frequently playing his second shot after the drive—a most unusual occurrence with him. Going out in 35, or 1 under par to his opponent's 37, Cochran was 1 up. Then came a gruelling contest. The 10th was split in 4; the 11th in 3, and the 12th in 5. At the 13th Cochran got away a tee shot that was easily 300 yards. He chipped up dead for a 3 and went to the long 14th, 525 yards, 2 up. But here Lyon showed the great golf that is in him by reaching the corner of the green with a superb brassie, eventually getting a 4 to his opponent's par 5. That was the turning point of the match. Cochran lost the next hole 4 to 3, and the 16th, 17th and 18th were halved, although the ex-champion had an easy chance for a putt to win at the home hole. The first hole at Beaconsfield is 506 yards, but here again Lyon secured a "birdie" four, negotiating very cleverly a half stymie and winning the extra-hole match amidst the hearty plaudits of the large gallery which had followed the game throughout with the greatest interest. The classy young Baltimore player was just getting into his stride and it is a moot question whether the Canadian championship might not have had a chance for the first time to cross the Border if he had not been put out so early in the game. The cards:

G. S. Lyon—

Clark Cochran:

Out 5,3,3, 4,5,3, 3,6,5=37

Out 4,4,4, 4,4,3, 4,4,4=35

In 4,3,5, 4,4,3, 5,5,5=38=75

In 4,3,5, 3,5,4, 5,5,5=39=74

Extra hole—Lyon 4, Cochran 5.

With a well played 76, Gillespie, of Calgary, accounted for Brice Evans, Boston. A. A. Adams, the Hamilton player, and A. Wilson, of The Royal Montreal, had a battle royal, which was only settled at the 19th in favour of the Hamiltonian. G. H. Turpin and E. R. L. Henry Anderson also had an extra-hole match. The Beaconsfield player was right on his game and although the ex-champion was dormy 2, Henry-Anderson won the 17th and also the 18th, where he negotiated a 40-foot putt, only, however, to lose the 19th. It was a close match. A good game was that between D. Laird, of Winnipeg, and A. Hutchinson, of The Royal Montreal, the Westerner winning 3 and 2. A very close match was that of Fritz Martin and M. Thompson, of Winnipeg, the former winning 1 up. F. F. Tribe, of Winnipeg, and C. W. Hague, Calgary, both came through with something to spare. R. B. Chillias, Beaconsfield, and his partner, L. S. Peck, The Royal Montreal, went to the 19th before the former secured a decision. R. Mackenzie, the young Outremont player, put on an excellent 73 in defeating his Toronto opponent so decisively.

The second round of the championship Tuesday afternoon was responsible for the downfall of the amateur champion, Wm. McLuckie, who was beaten handily by G. S. Lyon 5 and 4; for the elimination of the last of the U. S. entries and for a sensational score of 68, the record for the course, made by Marcus Greer, of Grand'Mere, Que., who learned his game in Philadelphia. Douglas Laird, of Winnipeg, had the rather doubtful pleasure of being Greer's opponent, although it is no disgrace to be beaten 7 and 6 by an uncanny score in the sixties on a course such as Beaconsfield. This is how Greer's card reads:

Par out	5,3,4, 3,5,3, 4,4,5=36	Par in	4,3,5, 4,5,3, 4,4,4=36
Greer, out	4,3,4, 3,5,3, 3,4,4=33	Greer, in	4,3,4, 5,5,2, 4,4,4=35
Total, Par	72
Total, Greer	68

Coming in, at the 13th Greer was on the green in 2, but decided to take 3 putts. At the long 14th he was in the bunker, but making a fine recovery, secured a par 5. The Grand'Mere player had accounted for the Quebec champion, T. B. Reith (the previous holder of the Beaconsfield amateur record with a 70), early in the morning, and after coming in with this 68 made by the way in quite a heavy rain, his stock commenced to soar.

Results of the second round:

F. G. Hoblitzell, Sarnia, won from A. A. Gill, Toronto, 6 and 5.
 T. Gillespie, Calgary, won from F. M. Hancock, Providence, R. I., 5 and 4.

 J. H. McCulloch, Beaconsfield, won from W. C. James, Lambton, 3 and 2.
 J. T. Cuthbert, Winnipeg, won from E. S. McDougall, Beaconsfield, 4 and 3.
 C. B. Grier, Royal Montreal, won from Sidney Morgan, Beaconsfield, 3 and 2.
 W. S. Greening, Lambton, won from E. H. Collette, Providence, R. I., 2 and 1.

 W. J. Thompson, Mississauga, won from R. B. Chillas, Beaconsfield, 7 and 6.
 M. Greer, Grand'Mere, won from Douglas Laird, St. Charles, 7 and 6.
 C. W. Hague, Calgary, won from W. Maurice Hodgson, Royal Montreal, 3 and 2.

Gillespie, of Calgary, did not have much trouble in disposing of Hancock, the Rhode Island champion, 5 and 4, this being the second U. S. entrant he had accounted for.

Seymour Lyon and Norman Scott had a hard tussle, the Lambton man getting the decision 1 up.

A. A. Adams, of Hamilton, who has not missed a tournament for many years, playing some of the best golf in his career, took into camp Stanley Thompson, of Mississauga, to the tune of 5 and 4. His club mate, F. R. Martin, won from J. W. Yuile, 2 and 1. G. H. Turpin and F. F. Tribe had a most interesting match, the Montrealler winning 1 up.

Playing a fine 73, F. G. Hoblitzell won easily from A. A. Gill, whilst J. H. McCulloch again showed form when he accounted for the very good Lambton player, Wilfred C. James.

Young McCulloch Provides Sensation

Wednesday was the momentous day of the Championship, witnessing the upset of many favourites and heralding the advent of a young player, J. Hubert McCulloch, who in the years to come is bound to make his mark in Canadian golf—has in fact already done so. The following were the results of the Wednesday morning and afternoon rounds:

 Frank Thompson, Mississauga, won from W. S. Greening, Lambton, 2 and 1.
 G. H. Turpin, Royal Montreal, won from W. J. Thompson, Mississauga, 5 and 4.
 C. W. Hague, Calgary, won from M. Greer, Grand'Mere, 5 and 3.

FOURTH ROUND, CHAMPIONSHIP (Wednesday Afternoon).

T. Gillespie, Calgary, won from S. Lyon, Lambton, 5 and 4.
 J. H. McCulloch, Beaconsfield, won from F. R. Martin, Hamilton, 3 and 2.
 C. B. Grier, Royal Montreal, won from F. Thompson, Mississauga, 1 up.
 G. H. Turpin, Royal Montreal, won from C. W. Hague, Calgary, 3 and 2.

It will be seen from the above summary that young McCulloch performed what would seem to have been the impossible by accounting for two ex-champions in one day, ex-champions too, who were playing right up to form. Here was a ten handicap man who before the championships had never made better than an 81 on his own course calmly taking the measure of seasoned and brilliant golfers like George S. Lyon and Fritz Martin. Playing every shot with confidence, and with a sang froid that was delightful, this young David of the links, he is only 18 years of age, reeled off hole after hole in par figures and gave a demonstration generally of sound and nerveless golf that undoubtedly spells successes many in the future. It was an inspiring exhibition upon the part of the unassuming young son of the Hon. Secretary of The Royal Canadian Golf Association, and apart altogether from the personal aspect of the victories, such a remarkable display of early proficiency means much for Canadian golf because from the youthful ranks must be drawn the Canadian champions and International players of the future.

The morning round of the Lyon-McCulloch match, ended all square, the veteran and the youth each having a 38. Coming home McCulloch early established a lead and at the short 15th was 3 up. And here was staged a bit of a golfing tragedy. Lyon pitched a beautiful shot that dropped eight feet from the pin. It looked like a possible 2, but on coming to the green it was seen that the ex-champion's ball was literally buried in a soft spot. It was well-nigh unplayable and McCulloch winning the hole 3 to 4, also took the match 4 and 3.

In the afternoon, under most adverse weather conditions, the rain at times literally coming down in sheets, McCulloch also accounted for Fritz R. Martin, of Hamilton, who first won the Canadian championship in 1902, the year of the Beaconsfield boy's birth. Martin, by the way, had beaten his team-mate, A. A. Adams, in the morning. McCulloch driving well and putting most consistently, was 3 up at the turn on his doughty opponent. At the 13th he was dormie 5, but the Hamiltonian pluckily pulling himself together, won the long 14th and short 15th, and the match went to the 16th. Both drives here of over 200 yards. McCulloch's second found the bottom of the hill, whilst Martin was well on the green to the left. McCulloch pitched over on his third by about 20 yards, and as a miniature lake lay between his ball and the cup, the ball was lifted and placed the same distance to the west of the hole. He was then compelled to play the second odd, which brought him 6 feet from the cup. Martin played his third to within three feet of the hole. McCulloch, true to his brilliant putting of the day, sank his ball from the 6-foot distance, and Martin, missing his putt, the hole was halved and the brilliant Beaconsfield boy ended up a most remarkable day's golf by winning his second match 3 and 2. As a result of his memorable victories, McCulloch was the hero of the hour, and deservedly so, too. His veteran opponents were the first to join in his acclaim.

But there were other momentous matches being played besides those of McCulloch-Lyon-Martin.

An homeric struggle was waged in the morning between C. B. Grier and J. T. Cuthbert. Here were two much fancied candidates for the Championship and it was not until two extra holes had been played that the clever Westerner had to acknowledge defeat at the hands of the champion-to-be. Cuthbert came East with the prestige of two Provincial Championships and many Western course records. He is a finished product of the best Scottish school and demonstrated at Beaconsfield that he is thoroughly deserving of his Western reputation. He hits all his shots cleanly and crisply and is a well equipped player in every sense of the word. He put up a splendid game against the Royal Montreal player, and more than once came nearly winning the hard fought fight. Cuthbert made for himself a particularly good name throughout the Tournament, and it is to be hoped in the future he will be seen more often on Eastern courses.

Disposing of Cuthbert after a gruelling game in the morning, Grier had another battle royal in the afternoon with Frank Thompson, the very clever young player from Mississauga, who in the morning defeated W. S. Greening, Lambton, 2 and 1, after an interesting game. This match attracted quite a gallery, which witnessed some splendid golf. Going out in 37 to Grier's 38, Thompson was 1 up. The Montrealer with a well played 4 squared the match at the 10th. At the short 11th Thompson, with a very pretty 2, again assumed the lead. A 4 at the 12th made him 2 up. He lost the 13th 4 to 5, and the 14th 6 to 5, and the match was all square. The short 15th was halved in 3, as was also the 16th in 5, after Grier had been trapped, his recovery from which was one of the best shots of the match. Thompson should have won the 17th, but missing his putt, had to be satisfied with a half. Going to the home hole Grier outdrove Thompson, who, using his brassie, failed to run up the hill side to the green. The Montrealer with a beautiful iron shot was right on the pin, and getting an easy 4 to Thompson's 5, won one of the best matches of the day 1 up. Grier had a medal 76 and Thompson a 77.

The morning match, Turpin vs. W. J. Thompson, provoked much interest, as the latter had been installed favourite in the pools and it was generally conceded on his showing last year in the U. S. Amateur that he was the "dark horse" of the Championship. The Mississauga crack, however, was sadly off his game and the ex-champion had little difficulty in disposing of his opponent 5 and 4. This was one of the big upsets of the week. Turpin, however, is always a most dangerous match player. He was the second favourite in the pools and had a big following, who fancied him for premier honours.

In the afternoon he again justified the confidence of his supporters, accounting for C. W. Hague, of Calgary, 3 and 2. Hague in the morning had taken the measure of Marcus Greer, of Grand'Mere, who sprang into the lime-light Tuesday with a sensational course record of 68. Another capital Western golfer is Hague, and Turpin had to extend himself to defeat him. The pair went out after the deluge of rain and found the going very heavy. Hague was 1 up at the 12th, but after that the play was all in favour of the Easterner.

Seymour Lyon, who had accounted for J. Hadden, of Toronto, 3 and 2 in the morning, had to acknowledge defeat at the hands of T. Gillespie, of Calgary, in the afternoon 5 and 4. The latter playing a 73, had beaten F. G. Hoblitzell, of Sarnia, in the morning round 4 and 3. All through the day the Calgarian was using every club well and was rapidly gaining favour. It was recognized that here was a seasoned golfer with a lot of fine shots in his bag and likely to be a dangerous competitor for final honours.

Open Handicap and Provincial Matches

Thursday was devoted to the Open Handicap and the Interprovincial Matches. For the first time in the history of the R. C. G. A. the West entered a team for this event and the event was played off in the morning by medal play between Ontario and Quebec, the winner meeting the West in match play in the afternoon.

The two semi-finalists, Messrs. Turpin and Grier, did not take part in this match, wisely deciding to take a day off before the resumption of Championship play on Friday. Their absence was decidedly inimical to the interests of Quebec, Ontario winning by 4 strokes. The score:

QUEBEC.		ONTARIO.
Wm. McLuckie, Kanawaki	74	George S. Lyon, Lambton	78
T. B. Reith, Beaconsfield	82	J. Hadden, Toronto	82
E. S. McDougall, Beaconsfield	84	A. A. Adams, Hamilton	84
A. Wilson, Royal Montreal	84	F. R. Martin, Hamilton	84
S. Morgan, Beaconsfield	76	F. G. Hoblitzell, Sarnia	79
Marcus Greer, Grand Mere	83	F. Thompson, Mississauga	80
R. C. Smith, Beaconsfield	80	W. J. Thompson, Mississauga	78
J. H. McCulloch, Beaconsfield	81	Seymour Lyon, Lambton	79
D. V. T. Williams, Kanawaki	82	J. L. Lewis, Brantford	78
R. Mackenzie, Outremont	80	W. S. Greening, Lambton	88
	815		811

Ontario won by four strokes.

It will be noticed that the ex-amateur champion, W. McLuckie, had the best score, a well put together 74; S. Morgan, 76 (Quebec), and W. J. Thompson, J. L. Lewis, F. G. Hoblitzell and Seymour Lyon, all of the Ontario team, were the only other players to break into the seventies.

In the afternoon the West met Ontario in match play and lost, 8 matches to 2. It was rather strange that there was not a single match "all square," in view of the fact that in the Tournament there had been so many events all even at the 18th. The score:

ONTARIO.		THE WEST
G. S. Lyon, Lambton (2 up)	1	C. W. Hague, Calgary	0
W. J. Thompson, Mississauga (5 and 4)	1	J. T. Cuthbert, Winnipeg	0
F. R. Martin, Hamilton	0	T. Gillespie, Calgary (2 and 1)	1
J. Hadden, Toronto (1 up)	1	Matt. Thompson, Winnipeg	0
Seymour Lyon, Lambton (6 and 5)	1	F. F. Tribe, Winnipeg	0
Frank Thompson, Mississauga (2 and 1)	1	Douglas Laird, Winnipeg	0
A. A. Adams, Hamilton (4 and 3)	1	K. C. Allen, Winnipeg	0
F. G. Hoblitzell, Sarnia (4 and 3)	1	A. Campbell, Winnipeg	0

W. S. Greening, Lambton (4 and 3)	1	T. K. Middlemass, Winnipeg	0

The match between Lyon and Hague was one of the best of the whole Championship. The Calgary representative played sterling golf, whilst Lyon was right at the top of his game. As showing the quality of the play, the ex-champion had a medal of 82 (par for the course), his best round of the tournament, whilst Hague notched a 73. The Calgarian was laid a couple of stymies, otherwise probably the match would have been all square, Lyon eventually winning 2 up. It was pretty golf, exceedingly pretty golf.

There was a splendid field in the Open Handicap, and the win of Mr. W. G. Wood, of the Toronto Golf Club was very popular. He put on an excellent 82, which, less his handicap of 14, made him a 68.

Sidney Morgan, of Beaconsfield, finished in second place with a nett score two strokes over the Toronto man. Morgan produced a nice card of 76, which a handicap of 6 reduced to a nett of 70. Two nett scores of 71 followed. These were made by J. D. Wood, Rosedale, and J. H. McCulloch, Beaconsfield. The former's gross score was 82 and the latter's 81. Wood had a handicap of 11 and McCulloch one less.

The best gross score of the handicap match was produced by William McLuckie, Kanawaki, who went around in 74. As he is a 2 handicap man his score was reduced to 72, but that only brought him to fifth place.

The prize winners in the handicap were: Best gross, Wm. McLuckie (silver cigarette box); best nett (gold ring), W. G. Wood, Toronto Golf, 2nd; S. Morgan, Beaconsfield (Cigarette case), 3rd; J. Hubert McCulloch, Beaconsfield Golf Club, and J. D. Wood, Rosedale Golf Club (wrist watches). Herewith the full scores:

W. G. Wood, winner of the Handicap Play.

The Semi-Finals on Friday

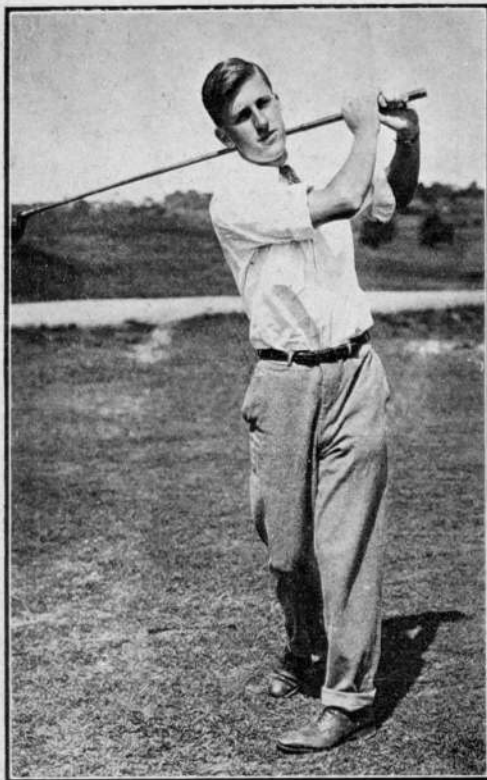

As a result of Wednesday's eliminations, the following teed up on Friday morning in the semi-finals for the acid test of 36 hole match play:

G. H. Turpin, The Royal Montreal, vs. C. B. Grier, The Royal Montreal.

T. Gillespie, Calgary Golf and Country Club, vs. J. H. McCulloch, The Beaconsfield Golf Club.

A very large gallery followed the Gillespie-McCulloch match, a tremendous amount of interest centering in this dual of East vs. West and of youth vs. experience. Could the young Beaconsfield phenomenon repeat with such a seasoned player as the Calgarian his notable victories over Lyon and Martin, or would he crack? That was the debatable question. The consensus of opinion was that the odds were against McCulloch and so they subsequently proved, but only by a close margin and one thing is certain, he did not crack, no, not he, but played as sound and nery a game as ever, and not until he was 2 down and 2 to go did he show the slightest symptom of the great strain under which he had undoubtedly been for four grinding days.

The match started by Gillespie winning the first two holes, three and four were halved, and then at the 5th McCulloch with a par 4 reduced his opponent's lead to 1. At the 6th he squared the match. The 7th was halved, but at the 8th with a birdie 3 Gillespie again assumed the lead. The 9th was halved, as was also the 10th. At the short 11th McCulloch again drew level with a perfectly played 2. At the 12th, with a superb 3, McCulloch for the first time assumed the lead, only to lose it again at the 14th. The long 15th was taken by Gillespie with a 4, or one under par, but McCulloch squared the match again at the short 15th. He also won the 16th and 17th, but with a clinking 3 Gillespie won the 18th, leaving McCulloch 1 up as the result of the morning round. The cards:

McCulloch:

Out 6,5 4, 4,4,3, 4,4,5 = 39

In 4,2,3 5,5,3, 4,4,5 = 35 = 74

Gillespie:

Out 5,3,4, 4,6,4, 4,3,5 = 38

In 4 3,6, 4,4,5, 5,5,3 = 39 = 77

In the afternoon McCulloch started by losing the first hole and Gillespie was again all square. A stymie at the 20th, however, lost the Calgarian the hole, and McCulloch was again 1 up. He also won the 21st, which left him 2 up. At the 22nd Gillespie drove the green and won 3 to 4. He also took the 23rd 5 to 6, and the match once again was all square. A spectacular 2 at the 24th and a fine approach and putt at the 25th for a 3, both "birdies," gave the Calgarian the useful lead of 2; a perfect 4 at the 26th increasing it to 3. Gillespie was now playing par golf and better. Nothing daunted, however, McCulloch continued to play steady golf, and winning the 27th reduced the lead coming home to 2. Perfect fours halved the 28th, but the 29th was won by McCulloch. At the 30th he had an excellent chance to square the match, but missed an easy putt for a 4. The 31st was won by Gillespie, making him 2 up. He also took the 32nd and increased his lead to 3 and 4. McCulloch with a 3 won the 33rd and had a good chance to win the 34th, but over-ran his putt. Gillespie dormie 2. At the 35th McCulloch made almost his first poor tee-shot of the whole week. He found the ditch, and in attempting to play out, embedded his ball in the mud, and was forced to pick up and drop. Playing 4, he found the sand trap to the right of the hole, and overplaying the green, conceded the hole to Gillespie, who had followed up a 240 yard drive with an approach which laid him dead for a 3.

It was the hardest kind of a hard fought match, and victor and vanquished alike came in for applause and hearty congratulations. McCulloch in his match showed conclusively that with a little more experience he will be capable of playing in any company. He has all the ear-marks of a golfer of the first-class. Gillespie had approximately a medal of 76 for his second round.

Whilst Beaconsfield and Calgary were fighting it out to the finish the Royal Montreal club-mates, G. H. Turpin and C. B. Grier, were too, having a most interesting contest. The first nine holes found the players all square, both having been in difficulties at one or two holes and the card showing Grier 41, Turpin 40. The 10th was won by Grier with a par 4. He also took the 11th and 12th, and was 3 up. The 13th was halved in a par 4. At the 14th Turpin reduced the lead to 2. The 15th was halved in 3. Turpin won the 16th, the 17th was halved and Grier won the 18th, leaving him 2 up as a result of the morning round.

Grier started by going great guns in the afternoon round, winning the 19th, 20th and 21st and increasing his lead to 5 up. Turpin, however, took the 22nd and 23rd. The 24th was halved, as also were the 25th and 26th. The 27th was won by Grier, making him 4 up at the turn. The 28th fell to Turpin with a par 4. The 29th was won by Grier. At the 30th Grier drove out of bounds, but he managed to get a half in 5. He lost the 31st, the 32nd was halved and then the end came at the short 33rd. Grier here had a pretty shot to the green, whilst Turpin was in trouble. His second was short and his third failed to find the pin. Grier laid his second dead and Turpin conceded the hole and the match to Grier, 4 and 3. The Mont-realers play a great deal together and this season Grier has generally had the edge on the ex-champion, although a match between the two is always close and interesting. They are easily in the forefront of Montreal golf.

C. B. Grier Wins The Championship

The whole of Beaconsfield was on the qui vive Saturday morning when the finals for the Championship were played off. Gillespie, of Calgary, as a result of steady, sterling golf throughout the week had many warm supporters. The West was naturally solidly for him, but many Easterners too, favoured him strongly for the Championship honours. On the other hand the brilliant game of Charles B. Grier, of The Royal Montreal, had greatly impressed many of the experts and he, too, had a very large and loyal following, who, as events turned out, were thoroughly justified in their estimate of the prowess and staying ability of the Royal Mont-realer.

The weather was ideal when the finalists teed-off for the first crucial round of the 36-hole contest. Grier quickly jumped into the lead. He won the first hole 5 to 6 and the second 3 to 5. The third and fourth were tied and then at the 5th the Montrealer increased his lead to 3. The short 6th and then the 7th were tied. Grier won the 8th and the 9th was halved. Going out in a splendidly played 36 to his opponent's 41, the Royal Montreal representative was 4 up.

Coming home matters did not improve for Gillespie, who was continually short in his approaches and could not seem to get up with his putts. He seemed to be feeling the effects of the weather, which had become very humid. He lost the 10th 5 to 4, and the 11th 4 to 3. At the 12th, with a 5 to 6 he won his first hole in the match. The 13th and 14th were halved, but Grier, again at the 15th recovered his lead of 6 by getting a 3 to his opponent's 4. He also won the 16th 5 to 6. The 17th was tied with fours, and then the Montrealer won the 18th 4 to 5 and Gillespie found himself at the end of the morning round in the unenviable position of being 8 down. Grier had a medal of 76, whilst Gillespie's card registered a very sad 85. This was 8 to 10 strokes to the bad on his average scores of the week, and did not represent anything like the game he is capable of playing. He simply could not seem, that fateful Saturday morning to put the "snap of the wrists" into his strokes, so noticeable in his previous matches.

But there was a different story in the afternoon. The Calgarian came back and a large gallery witnessed the pluckiest kind of an effort to make up for the morning's reverse. But the handicap was too great against a player of the calibre of the Royal Montrealer, and the ultimate result was never in doubt.

M. A. Greer, who made the Phenomenal Score of 68.

Gillespie started the afternoon round by winning the 19th and 20th with a par 5 and 3 against his opponent's 6 and 4. He lost the 21st with a par 4 to Grier's 3. He won the 22nd 3 to 5, whilst the 23rd he lost 6 to 5. The 24th was halved 3-3. The Calgarian won the 25th and 26th, and the 27th being halved, he was three up on Grier at the end of the third leg of the match, having reduced the Montrealer's morning lead to 5 up. Gillespie was out in 37—more like his real form, whilst Grier was 41.

At the 28th, after a splendid recovery from the rough, Gillespie laid his fourth shot dead, but Grier ran down a thirty-foot putt and won the hole. At the 29th Grier was trapped on the right and Gillespie won it with a par 3. Thanks to a weak approach, Gillespie allowed Grier to halve the 30th in 5. At the 31st the Montrealer missed a 3-foot putt and the hole being halved, the match became dormie 5. The 32nd hole (525 yards), was split in 5, Grier running down a long putt to end the match and win the Amateur Championship of Canada. Both victor and vanquished were heartily cheered by the large gallery, which had followed the afternoon game and thoroughly enjoyed a splendid exhibition upon the part of both the Eastern and Western representatives. The cards, although all said and done, it is hardly fair to publish the medal score in match play—the games are as diverse as the poles:

On the capacious verandah of the Beaconsfield Golf Club the final act in the 1920 Canadian Championship was staged. Here Mr. David R. Brown, the President of The Royal Canadian Golf Association and President of Beaconsfield, surrounded by his officials, presided over the presentation of the prizes (the prize list will be found in tabloid form on page 193). It was a delightful and pretty wind up to a delightful and memorable week. The Champion was cheered in coming forward to receive the Governor-General's Cup and the Association's Gold Medal; the runner-up was cheered, all the other prize winners were cheered, the officials were cheered; in brief, it was the cheeriest kind of a function that was performed under the shadows of Beaconsfield's stately stone club house. And then the curtain rang down on the 22nd annual Amateur Canadian Championship, but the memory of it all will last for many a day amongst the hundreds of fortunate participants.

The new Champion of Canada was born in Montreal 32 years ago and was educated at St. Andrews College, Toronto. At the age of 17 he took his first lessons in golf from C. R. Murray, then professional of the old Westmount Golf Club. Murray afterwards went to Dixie and Mr. Grier also joined the Royal Montreal. For the past ten years he has been playing first-class golf, but he never quite got into his stride until this season. He drives a long ball from the tee, plays his irons with great confidence and putts with accuracy and firmness. He is a very pretty player to watch. All through the gruelling week he played consistently good golf and deservedly won premier honours. In addition to golf, in his time Mr. Grier has been a crack hockey player and is also a clever amateur boxer. The Canadian Amateur Championship has never been held by a cleaner cut Canadian. Mr. Grier served as a gunnery officer overseas and in business is a member of the Stock Exchange firm of Ryan, Grier and Hastings. He intends to take part in the U. S. Amateur next September at Roslyn, L. I.

Mr. T. Gillespie, the runner-up, who was born in St. Andrews, Scotland, was also overseas. He has made his residence for some years now in the West, where he is very popular in golfing and other circles. He is a splendid type of the Scottish school of golfer.

The Results Of The Consolations

Apart from the Championship proper there were many interesting competitions in the various consolations run off during the week.

In the 2nd Consolation (players eliminated from the 2nd round of the Championship), there was a fine field of players, comprised of F. M. Hancock, A. A. Gill, R. C. Smith, N. M. Scott, J. W. Yuile, Stanley Thompson (who defaulted), W. McLuckie, W. C. James (who defaulted), S. Morgan, E. S. McDougall, R. McKenzie, H. Collette, R. B. Chillias, F. F. Tribe, Maurice Hodgson and Douglas Laird.

This consolation was eventually won by J. W. Yuile, another Royal Montreal player of sterling merit.

In the First Consolation (players eliminated from the 1st round of the Championship), there were E. A. McNutt, B. S. Cornish, H. S. Reid, Bryce Evans, J. L. Lewis, G. W. Jacobs, Carlton Monk, J. H. H. Robertson, A. Wilson, B. Devlin, M. Thompson, E. S. Merrett, Jess Applegath, E. C. Cochran, H. H. Donald, G. R. McCall, A. Campbell, D. V. T. Williams, J. T. Novinger, Gratz Joseph, A. H. Ross, A. F. Baillie, K. C. Allen, F. R. Cochrane, E. R. L. Henry-Anderson, W. R. Campbell, T. B. Reith, A. Hutchinson, L. S. Peck, R. Henderson, B. L. Anderson, F. G. Hale. This Consolation was won by T. B. Reith, of Beaconsfield.

The players in the 3rd Consolation were: B. S. Cornish, Bryce Evans, G. W. Jacobs, J. H. H. Robertson, B. Devlin, E. S. Merrett, E. C. Cochran, H. H. Donald, A. Campbell, J. T. Novinger, A. F. Baillie, F. R. Cochrane, W. R. Campbell, R. Henderson, A. Hutchinson, F. G. Hale. This competition was won by B. S. Cornish, of Beaconsfield.

Lieut.-Col. Paul J. Myler, Hamilton, unanimously elected President of The Royal Canadian Golf Association.

George S. Lyon, Lambton Golf and Country Club; T. B. Reith, Beaconsfield Golf Club.
Executive: Major W. D. Wilson, Hamilton; R. C. H. Cassels, Toronto; H. S. Reid, Mississauga; G. H. Turpin, Royal Montreal, and Major Orde Royal Ottawa.

Heretofore, it has always been the custom to select the Secretary of the Association from the club where the Amateur Championship is held from year to year. Golf has become such an important game that it has been thought for some time now a permanent Secretary should be appointed with a permanent office in some central city. It was the unanimous wish of the meeting that Mr. B. L. Anderson, of Toronto, should be appointed permanent Secretary and he accepted. A better choice could not have been made. Mr. Anderson is qualified in every essential for the duties of this important position.

Amidst great enthusiasm the meeting decided to award the 1921 championships to the Winnipeg Golf Club, Winnipeg. The motion was made by Mr. W. R. Baker, C.V.O., President of The Royal Montreal Golf Club and President of The Canadian Seniors' Golf Association. In a most convincing manner he pointed out that the golfers of the West after 20 odd years, were entitled to this recognition. They were doing much to uphold the best traditions of the game and it would be a graceful act upon the part of the golfers of the East to conform to the wishes of the West and hold next year's championship in Winnipeg. He was sure they would never regret taking such a commendable action.

Lt.-Col. Paul J. Myler, of Hamilton (Hamilton also wanted the Championship in 1921), Mr. George S. Lyon and other coincided with the sentiments of Mr. Baker and the motion carried amidst the greatest enthusiasm.

Mr. T. K. Middlemass, President of the Manitoba Golf Association, and other Westerners expressed their great gratification at the action taken and extended the heartiest kind of an invitation to all golfers to come to Winnipeg in 1921. They would be assured of a rousing welcome. There was a general discussion, dur-

Winnipeg Gets The 1921 Championship

The annual meeting of The Royal Canadian Golf Association was held on Tuesday evening of the Championship meeting. There was an unusually large attendance of delegates, representatives being present from all parts of Canada. Mr. D. R. Brown, the President, occupied the chair.

The annual report of the Hon. Secretary, Mr. James L. McCulloch, was of a most satisfactory character. There are now 84 clubs belonging to the Association, whereas a few years ago there were only some 25. The receipts for the year amounted to $3,689, a small balance being shown after all expenses of championships, International matches, etc., had been paid. The total amount paid over to the Red Cross by the Association as a result of exhibition golf matches, tournaments, etc., in 1918 and 1919 was the very satisfactory one of $22,163.00.

The election of officers for 1921 resulted as follows:

President, Lt.-Col. Paul J. Myler, Hamilton Golf and Country Club.

Vice-Presidents, C. B. Wilson, K.C., Winnipeg;

Mr. B. L. Anderson, appointed permanent Hon. Secretary of The Royal Canadian Golf Association.

Dunlop "31" Golf Ball

This feature took place at Muirfield between the dates of June 7th and 12th, 1920, and adds to the already long list of important events in which Dunlop Golf Balls have played a successful part.

Is it not logical then that Golf Balls which are continually adding to their fame, at times such as the above, should be the most satisfactory for players—whether the object is for pleasure or for championships?

Dunlop Golf Balls are made by a special vacuum process, and being built on an accurately weighted core, are matchless for driving and certain for putting. They are absolutely true to shape. Those are the reasons they are most often selected by players who know so much depends on the reliability of the ball. Out of eleven professionals and assistants nine were found enthusiastic adherents to the use of Dunlop Golf Balls.

Out of eleven Professionals and assistants in Toronto and District nine were found to be enthusiastic adherents to the use of the Dunlop Golf Ball, showing the high percentage of experienced men who favor it on absolutely a merit basis.

ing which some suggestions were offered regarding the conduct of championship tournaments and particularly in relation to the handicaps. Eventually the matter was left for the Executive to deal with.

The meeting adjourned after a hearty vote of thanks to President Brown and his associates for their invaluable work during the past year.

On Friday night, July 2nd, Mr. David R. Brown was the host at the annual Presidential dinner, the guests comprising all the leading players and participants in the Tournament. It was the jolliest kind of a dinner. There were speeches and there were Highland toasts and songs galore, and everything went from the start with a swing and follow through which left nothing to be desired.

After the enjoyment of a most delectable menu the Vice-Chairman, Mr. James L. McCulloch, gave the toast of "The King," received with all the honours and the singing of the National Anthem. The Second Vice, Mr. W. W. Walker, then proposed the President of the United States, followed by the singing in the heartiest manner possible of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

Toasts to the visitors from the West, from the United States and from other parts of Canada, brought forth happy replies from the various representatives present. There was singing aplenty and of course Mr. George S. Lyon had to render "My Will Irish Rose" and "Mother Machree," both of which classics were greeted with tumultuous applause. Mr. Brice S. Evans, of Boston, and Mr. Harold Farrington, of Providence, made a great hit in speech song, whilst Mr. L. V. Shaw at the piano easily made the record for the musical course.

During the evening Mr. Ralph H. Reville, on behalf of the visitors, extended most cordial thanks to Mr. Brown and the officials of Beaconsfield for their princely hospitality and then requested Mr. McCulloch, the Vice-Chairman to come to the head table, when the President, Mr. Brown, on behalf of The Royal Canadian Golf Association and the Beaconsfield Golf Club, presented the Hon. Secretary with a handsome silver tea service as a slight token of appreciation of his most efficient Secretarial work.

Mr. McCulloch, who was genuinely taken by surprise, in a capital speech returned thanks for the handsome gift. He took the occasion to refer to the many kind things that had been said about his son and the golf that he had played that week. He was, of course, very proud that his boy had done so well but he was sincere in saying that he was glad he had not come through to the finals. He was very young, and he had lots of time yet to win his championship spurs. (Great applause).

'Twas a wonderful dinner alright, and the genial host come in for all sorts of praise and congratulations, which he richly deserved.

Tournament Tee Shots

Beaconsfield members claim that they have one of the finest clubs in Canada. And Beaconsfield boasteth not unduly.

* * *

It would be useless to mention the names of the Committees in charge of club house and course. The whole club was a committee.

* * *

And now for Winnipeg in 1921. And Winnipeg and Winnipeggers will not be found wanting. The spacious West is golf to the core, and Western hospitality is noted the wide world o'er.

* * *

The dinner-dance on Thursday night was a very brilliant affair. There was a gallant company of golfers and golf maidens and the whole affair went with a swing and follow-through that was irresistible.

* * *

Quite one of the features was the very excellent bulletining of the events from day to day. A particularly capable staff of willing Beaconsfield members had this in hand and the cards were on the boards within a few minutes after the players had left the last green.

* * *

Beaconsfield from a spectators' standpoint is an ideal course to hold a championship, the links opening up beautifully from the escarpment running in front of the club house, bringing into view green after green. As one stands here and at other coigns of vantage one feels like quoting the poet, who said:

"No pent-up Utica confines our powers,
The world, the boundless world is ours."

And this is a true story. One of the prominent entrants after a severe 35-hole grind, wisely concluded to forestall another strenuous day's battle on the links, by tumbling in at 8 p.m. After a particularly refreshing sleep he awoke and his watch indicating 9.30, took a hurried shave and shower, as he was due on the tee at 10.30 a.m. Going into one of his friends' room before toddling down to breakfast, he remarked, "It's awfully dark for nearly 10 o'clock in the morning; must be another storm coming up." "Ten o'clock in the morning!" replied his astonished chum. "Why it is ten o'clock at night, man!" He went back to bed.

It looks as though Beaconsfield was to be the mother of future champions. She has not only young Mr. McCulloch to her credit, but half a dozen or more likely youngsters who are bound to be heard from in the years to come. Happy the club that boasts young players of ability. The golfing supremacy of such an one is absolutely assured.

Ontario has now won the championship fifteen times, Quebec seven times. Members of The Royal Montreal have now captured the premier event four times, the honour roll being composed of Messrs. J. Percy Taylor, A. Wilson, Jr., G. H. Turpin and C. B. Grier. Lambton has six championships to its credit, thanks entirely, however, to Mr. G. S. Lyon.

A Hard-working "Pair," Mr. Brown, President, and Mr. J. L. McCulloch, Hon. Secretary of the R. C. G. A., who gave so prodigally of their time and energy in the interest of the Tournament.

At the first Canadian Championship held at The Royal Ottawa there were barely 20 entries and within quite recent years the field never exceeded 50. The following are the names of the champions since the inception of the event:

1895—T. H. Harley, Kingston; 1896—Stewart Gillespie, Quebec; 1897—W. A. H. Kerr, Toronto; 1898—George S. Lyon, Rosedale; 1899—Vere C. Brown, Rosedale; 1900—George S. Lyon, Rosedale; 1901—W. A. H. Kerr, Toronto; 1902—F. R. Martin, Hamilton; 1903—George S. Lyon, Lambton; 1904—J. Percy Taylor, Royal Montreal; 1905—George S. Lyon, Lambton; 1906—George S. Lyon, Lambton; 1907—George S. Lyon, Lambton; 1908—A. Wilson, Jr., Royal Montreal; 1909—E. Legge, Toronto; 1910—Fritz Martin, Hamilton; 1911—G. H. Hutton, Beaconsfield; 1912—George S. Lyon, Lambton; 1913—George H. Turpin, Royal Montreal; 1914—George S. Lyon, Lambton; 1919—Wm. McLuckie, Kanawaki; 1920—C. B. Grier, The Royal Montreal. Mr. Lyon was playing for Rosedale when he won the first two of his eight championships.

After the draw was made for the championship on Monday night there was a merry auction pool, the favourites all coming in for financial attention that must have been exceedingly gratifying as showing the golfing estimate in which their admirers held them. A Torontonian, Mr. W. J. Thompson, ruled favourite, with a Montrealler, Mr. G. H. Turpin, a close second.

Mr. R. C. S. Bruce, President of the Norwood Golf Club, Winnipeg, was among the popular visitors from the West. He took an active part in securing the 1921 championship for his city.

* * *

Mr. B. S. McFarlane, champion of the Maritime Provinces, was among the entrants. This was his first baptism of championship golf and will do much for his game in the years to come.

* * *

A word of praise for the Montreal press. The reports of the Tournament day by day were most complete and generally speaking, most accurate. Montreal papers are now all featuring golf.

* * *

To H. S. Reid, of Mississauga, belongs the credit of making the most sensational hole of the Tournament. The 8th at Beaconsfield is 316 yards, but the long driver from the banks of the Credit in the qualifying round put his tee shot just off the green to the right, and then promptly proceeded to hole a 2. The par of the hole, which is uphill at that, is 4.

* * *

Charlie Murray, the pro. at The Royal Montreal, is very proud of the fact, and justly so too, that he has now "tutored" three amateur champions—Messrs. Turpin, A. Wilson and Grier. It is a fine record. He also has to his credit Albert Murray, of Kanawaki, who served his apprenticeship with him, and who has twice won the Open Championship.

* * *

Hubert McCulloch's stalwart young caddie throughout the Tournament week was his chum, Wilfred L. Munn, "and a right good caddie, too." Nothing more heartening to a player than an intelligent and sympathetic carrier of the clubs and bag. It often means the winning of a hole.

* * *

Mr. T. B. Reith refereed the finals in the Championship.

* * *

Mr. W. H. Follette, Editor of "Golf Illustrated," New York, was present the last two or three days of the Championship. He is leaving "Golf Illustrated" next month to take up a responsible position with the Carter Tested Seed Co., New York.

* * *

At the dinner, Mr. Middlemass, President of the Manitoba Golf Association, made the pleasing announcement that his Association as a slight token of appreciation of the many courtesies extended the Western entrants by the officers and members of Beaconsfield desired to present a trophy for competition amongst the members of Beaconsfield. The announcement was received with cheers and was accepted by Mr. Brown, on behalf of Beaconsfield, in an appropriate speech of thanks.

* * *

A very busy man throughout Championship week was Black, the Beaconsfield professional. He catered to the wants of golfers generally and catered to them in a manner which left nothing to be desired. He and his assistants had a particularly busy time of it, "morning, noon and noot." Incidentally, "Jimmie" was responsible for one of the best original songs at the annual dinner. He was encored again and again.

* * *

Beaconsfield has a very fine putting green "abaft" the verandah and right near the first tee. It was greatly enjoyed by the participants in the Tournament, giving them an excellent opportunity to tune up their green shots. A feature of this oval is a most symmetrical shrub, which was there many years before the property was ever thought of for a golf course.

* * *

It was a genuine source of regret that Mr. J. Munro Hunter, of Edmonton, champion of Alberta, was at the last moment unable to come to Beaconsfield. His Western confreres all state that he is the longest driver in the West, if not in the Dominion and that he has a great deal more than a tee-shot in his bag. In fact, is a most finished golfer. Mr. Hunter is 6 feet 4 inches in height and physically and from a golfing standpoint is always a dominating figure in any contest.

Have YOU Ever Taken This World Famous VACATION TRIP?

Romantic interest, magnificent scenery, delightful thrills, and refreshing comfort in this wonderful boat trip from

Niagara To The Sea

Artist never brushed fairer beauty into canvas than the glorious picture that enfolds itself as the luxurious boat steams slowly through the Thousand Islands. Nature has lavished her colors on these gorgeously modeled clusters of green verdure, which reflect their emerald beauty into the glassy depths of the river water.

The delightful thrill comes when you shoot the tossing, foam-lashed waters of the St. Lawrence. Travellers come year after year to enjoy this experience.

But equally wonderful beauties await you farther down the St. Lawrence. Travel its broad expanse as far as Quebec—where history casts its romantic glow of interest over this quaint old city.

Do you believe in miracles? A few miles from Quebec is St. Anne de Beaupre, where for 250 years town folks and pilgrims have bowed together before wayside altars—and in the great church of St. Anne itself—to do homage to the Saint in whose name so many miraculous cures have been effected.

The grand finale of this trip comes when you reach the famous River Saguenay. Here massive cliffs rise almost perpendicular from the dark, shadowy waters till they seem to touch the sky. Higher and more awe-inspiring than Gibraltar.

The 1,000 mile journey affords you an opportunity of seeing the most picturesque part of America. And you will return from it convinced that this boat trip rivals any trip in the world for pleasure and grandeur.

Could Fancy Picture A Boat Trip of Such Marvelous Beauty and Interest

Those who have taken this wonder trip of unexcelled beauty, never tire of recounting the thrills and sensations they experienced as the luxurious steamer carried them over this famous journey from

Niagara To The Sea

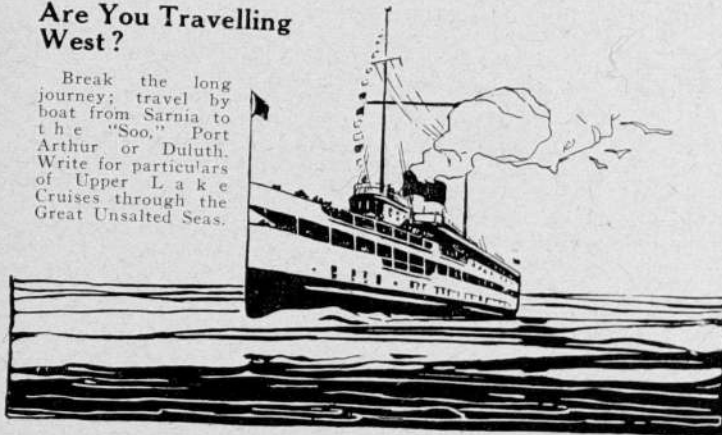

Commencing at Niagara we cross Lake Ontario to Toronto—thence through the beautiful Thousand Islands to Prescott. Presently we "shoot" the tossing foam lashed waters of the St. Lawrence Rapids and arrive at Montreal. Then Quebec is visited—that quaint old city of tradition and enchantment.

The route continues East and North, touching at Murray Bay and Tadousac, a much favored summer resort by reason of beautiful scenery and splendid hotels.

Finally we come to the canyon-like scenery of the Saguenay, where massive capes tower two thousand feet above our boat deck. Capes Trinity and Eternity hold us spellbound with their magnificent beauty. These mightiest of all the promontories that tower above the dark waters of the majestic Saguenay form a fitting climax to a vacation trip that surpasses all others in grandeur and majesty.

ST. ANDREWS-BY-THE-SEA

(Special Correspondence, "Canadian Golfer")

LORD and Lady Shaughnessy are occupying their cottage ("Tipperary"), at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea. His Lordship is frequently seen playing a round on the links, also the Hon. Miss Marguerite Shaughnessy, who was runner-up for the championship last year. Among the cottage and hotel arrivals are:

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hope, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Markey, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Hosmer, Montreal; Mrs. H. B. Robinson, Montreal; Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Sills, Geneva, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Joseph, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Hayter Reed, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ganong, Toronto (Mrs. Ganong won the Ladies' Championship last season.) Lady Allan and Miss Martha Allan, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ballantyne, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cowan, Montreal; Mrs. Percy Cowan and family, Montreal; Mrs. W. J. Turpin, Montreal; Sir Thomas and Lady Tait, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Scott, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coles Tappan, New York; Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Highet, Greenwich; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Baldy, Southboro, Mass.; Percy-Thomson, St. John; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Beauclerk, Montreal; H. Robertson, Montreal; Daniel Waters, Toronto; Sir Henry and Lady Egan, Ottawa.

Golf is exceedingly popular here this season and the beautiful links are crowded.

"WITHOUT AN ALIBI"

(Grantland Rice in the "American Golfer")

HAGEN failed. This is the simple statement of what took place when the Open Champion of the United States finished 26 strokes back of Duncan, the leader.

Barnes, playing steadily and evenly, sound golf all the way, outclassed his team mate, as he proved again that a greater variety of strokes is needed to meet all tests of play.

Hagen was supposed to be the ideal type for this competition. He had the skill and the confidence. He had always shown himself to be at his best with a title or a big match at hand. But when he found that his game wasn't working his confidence came down with a crash, leaving him floundering badly, far in the wake of the field.

All the confidence in the world isn't going to help a golfer who suddenly finds that his game will not help the occasion—who suddenly finds that his style is not producing results.

Hagen went over with a long, high carry, and a high pitch to the green in the belief that there "were no bunkers in the air." But he suddenly found there were in vast profusion, as the scurrying gales of Deal carried his high trajectory into frequent trouble.

After all, this experience may be a valuable lesson to our Open Champion. By now he should have discovered where his weakness lay and he still has the qualifications to make such changes as his game may need. He has his chance, of course, to partially redeem himself at Inverness, but that will be no new glory. We have no hesitation in saying that when Hagen next makes his invasion of British golf, he will go with a sounder game and with a better appreciation of the tremendous barrier he must hurdle. The result was entirely too decisive to leave any room for argument. His failure was too complete to call for even the slightest alibi.

The Golden Rule

Many useful rules there are,
On which our golf game pivots,
But one stands out beyond a doubt,
"Please replace the divots."

tional Textile Match, which has become an annual fixture.

Last year a party of Canadian Textile Manufacturers were entertained at golf by a number of yarn, cotton and trimming merchants of Philadelphia, the games there being played at Bala and Philadelphia Country Clubs.

The return matches this year were played on Thursday and Friday, June 17th and 18th, the first day at the Hamilton Golf and Country Club, Ancaster, the second day at the Waterloo Country Club, Galt, Ont.

The United States representatives to come to Canada this year were Mr. C.

Van Leer, of Van Leer and Company, Philadelphia.

On Thursday singles were played on the Ancaster course, nine holes before lunch and nine following. The players were paired as follows:

AMERICANS.	CANADIANS
C. L. Gilliland	with James Moodie.
M. P. Glynn	with C. R. Warnock.
S. L. Jones	with K. W. Harvey.
W. M. Van Leer	with J. G. Turnbull.

On the day's play the American four led the Canadians by a comfortable margin.

On Friday, at Galt, foursomes were played, made up as follows:

W. M. Van Leer and M. P. Glynn were paired with C. R. H. Warnock and J. G. Turnbull.

S. L. Jones and C. L. Gilliland were paired with James Moodie and K. W. Harvey.

The result of the day's play was very close, but was again in favour of the American players.

During the day at Galt the party was joined by Mr. E. P. Watson, of Brantford, and Mr. Charles Turnbull, of Galt.

On Thursday evening, after the match, the American visitors were taken to the lake shore residence of Mr. James Moodie, where they were joined by Mrs. K. W. Harvey, of Woodstock, Mrs. W. J. Westaway, of Hamilton, Rev. W. H. Sedgewick, Lieutenant-Colonel J. R. and Mrs. Moodie. The party was delightfully entertained at dinner, and afterward at a marshmallow roast on the lake shore.

On Friday, lunch was served at the home of Mr. C. R. H. Warnock. Mrs. Warnock, the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. K. W. Harvey, of Woodstock, served one of those artistically arranged and appetising Inncheons for which she is justly noted.

In the evening a dinner, which was most thoroughly enjoyed, was served by the Galt gentlemen at the Galt City Club.

Before returning to Philadelphia on Saturday evening, the American visitors were given another day at Ancaster, where they were joined by Lieutenant-Colonel J. R. Moodie, and were afterward entertained at "Blink Bonnie," the home of Lieutenant-Colonel Moodie, on Bay Street South.

A return match is proposed for this Fall, but it quite unlikely that the invitation will be accepted at that time. In the Spring of 1921 the invitation will be accepted for play at one or more of the famous clubs in the United States.

The arrangements for these annual outings have been the work of Mr. W. J. Westaway, of Hamilton, and the International Textile matches which have already been played have been very successful and happy events, due to the completeness of his plans for the entertainment of both the Canadian and American players.

Interesting Jottings from the Courses of England,

Holiday travel in Ireland is being "boomed" by a syndicate of Belfast capitalists who have taken over the Golf Hotel, Portrush, and the Marine Hotel, Ballycastle. They will purchase other hotels in the North of Ireland.

Owing to the congestion at the Braids 18 and 9 hole golf courses, the Parks Committee of Edinburgh Town Council have been on the look-out for ground suitable for extensions. Negotiations have now been concluded for the lease of a piece of ground on the north side of Braid Hills Road, which will provide for two 18-hole courses in place of the present 18 hole and 9-hole courses. The additional ground extends to 34.5 acres, and comprises ground of a character similar to that on which the existing courses are laid out. Some of the most prominent golfers in Scotland first learned the game on the famous Braid Hills.

At Johannesburg the South African championship was won by L. B. Waters with rounds of 76, 77, 75, 76—total 304. Waters was champion in 1903, 1904 and 1907. Mr. H. Gordon Stewart, Cape Town, carried off the amateur championship with 82, 76, 79, 78—total 315. Next year's championship meeting will take place at Port Elizabeth, that of 1922 at Port Alfred and that of 1923 at Cape Town. Both the South African champions learned their game in the East of Scotland. Mr. Gordon Stewart, at the beginning of the fourth round for the amateur was four strokes behind Mr. Elliott, but a round of 78 against 84 left the latter two strokes to the bad at the end of the second day's play. South Africa is one of the few countries where the amateur is decided by medal instead of match play.

The following is Abe Mitchell's splendid card in the Gleneagle's tournament, which made a record for this very difficult course:

Out 3,4,4, 4,3,5, 3,3,4=33

In 4,4,3, 4,5,4, 6,4,4=38=71

Unfortunately, he went to pieces on his second round and had to be content with an 81, which allowed Ray to win out the qualifying round with 151, or one stroke better than Mitchell. The latter's only poor hole in his first round of 71 was the 16th, where it will be noticed he took a 6. With his second shot to this hole he attempted to pick the ball up with his driver and to cut it round on to the green. But the cut did not act and he pulled close to some railings. He may have had room to swing his club, but no margin, and he fozzled the shot. Mitchell took it for granted that these railings marked the out of bounds, but as a matter of fact they were only protecting ground under repair so he might have picked and dropped without penalty. In those circumstances he would probably have saved a shot and possibly two.

James Braid was the dominating figure in the recent Galashiels Tournament. It was the Braid of 1910, when the Scot was at the top of his game with a record behind him of five Open championships and four "News of the World" tournaments tucked away in his bag, all accomplished between 1901 and 1910; a record which has never been equalled and which probably never will be again. Braid was driving a consistently long ball at Galashiels, which is a new course in Scotland, and romped home an easy winner, his nearest competitor being Vardon, 9 strokes in the rear. Braid's best round was a 70, made up as follows:

Out 4,4,4, 4,4,4, 4,5,4=37

In 4,3,4, 3,4,4, 4,4,3=33 &

A wonderful score certainly. At the 6th hole in the fourth round, Braid played one of the greatest shots in his long and notable career. His ball lay in loose soil, a yard and a half from a

After making his stroke he had to jump back to avoid contact with the ball, which rose almost sheer off the club and clearing the wall, came to rest on the green forty yards away, less than two yards from the pin. And then Braid holed the putt! The following is the prize list at this memorable tournament:

It was largely the result of the fine golf by Barnes that he and Hagen defeated Duncan and Mitchell 3 and 2 at Addington. The former Cornishman won the majority of holes for his side. In the afternoon round Barnes and Hagen had a best ball of 66.

Playing some of the finest golf ever recorded in the history of the game, George Duncan won the "Daily Mail" £500 Tournament at Westward Ho! with an uncanny 291. He broke all records for the links. Abe Mitchell was in second place with 298; J. H. Taylor 301; James Braid 302; E. Ray 306.

- The Amateur Champion is 24 years of age, not 21, as generally reported in the press.

The sensation of the month was the defeat in the English Ladies' Championship of Miss Cecil Leitch by Miss Wethered, quite a young girl. The champion was defeated 2 and 1. Miss Wethered played wonderful golf, putting on a 74 for 17 holes. During this remarkable match Miss Wethered had seven 3's and Miss Leitch 5. Ladies' golf seems to be becoming almost too good to be true. Miss Wethered, for instance, at the 12th hole, 296 yards, drove the green. The Sheringham course, where the championship was played, was very hard as the result of a dry spell, but granted this, such a drive is phenomenal.

THE CHAMPIONSHIPS OF QUEBEC

The Country Club, Montreal, is the Scene of Many Interesting Events—Mrs. Ahearn, of The Royal Ottawa, Wins the Ladies' Championship, Mr.

T. B. Reith the Men's Amateur, and Arthur Woodward the Professional Event—A Fine Field of Entrants in All the Competitions

ON Friday and Saturday, June 18th and 19th, the very attractive course of the Country Club, Montreal, was the scene of the first championships of the Province of

The Men's Amateur Championship, Mr. T. B. Reith, of The Beaconsfield Golf Club.

The Professional Championship, Arthur Woodward, professional of the Country Club.

There were 44 entries in the Ladies' event.

Mrs. Ahearn's winning score of 90 was the lowest ever made by a woman on the Country Club course and was obtained by steady, consistent play, in which excellent driving was a feature. The Royal Ottawa representative richly deserved the honour of winning for the first time the Quebec Championship. She should be heard from in the Canadian Championship, which will be played for in Hamilton later on in the season.

Miss Kate Robertson, Beaconsfield, runner-up last year for the Canadian Ladies' Championship, was again in second place with the close margin of one stroke between her score and that of the Ottawa player. Miss Robertson also gave an exhibition of a well-sustained game of dependable character. Only one shot could be said to have been missed, when she failed to sink a 3-foot putt on the 18th green, and this shot cost her a tie for the title.

Third place in the gross score was taken by Miss Maud Codville, Royal Ottawa, with 94. Miss Molly McBride, Beaconsfield, who came fourth, turned in a card of 95.

Mrs. McSweeney, Kanawaki, was the winner of the handicap match with a score of 109—36=73; Mrs. Ahearn was second, 90—14=76, and Miss Codville third, 90—12=78. The honours of the day may certainly be said to have gone to the Royal Ottawa, for, in addition to boasting the possession of the champion, the team included Miss Maud Codville, winner of the sealed hole competition and holder of third Quebec. Heretofore the event has been confined to Montreal and District, but this year it was very wisely decided to include the whole Province, and entries were received from all the prominent clubs.

Two days of sterling golf resulted in the following well known players winning the respective championships:

The Ladies' Championship, Mrs. Frank Ahearn, of The Royal Ottawa.

place for both gross and net scores for the 18 holes. The Royal Ottawa team also won the team competition by a margin of 13 strokes, having 387 in all, and three players turned in cards under 100.

Beaconsfield's team took second place with 400, two players keeping under the 100 mark. Royal Montreal had one player under 100 and their first team was in third place with 419. Royal Montreal second team had 424 for fourth place, while Grand Mere followed with 427. Royal Montreal third team was sixth with 439 strokes; Kanawaki first team was seventh, having 444; and Kanawaki second team had 452, with Country Club totalling 493.

A feature of the day, says the Montreal "Gazette," which made a decided impression on the large gallery of men assembled, principally to watch the professionals' game, but who spared an occasional glance in the direction of the ladies' contest, was the long driving on the part of the women competitors. This was particularly noticeable from the first tee at the beginning of the match. Of the 44 drives, only one was actually missed, and many travelled distances from 160 to 200 yards. Miss E. Nichol, Royal Montreal, was estimated by the starter to have gone 190 yards, while Miss Brownlee, Rivermead, obtained about equal results from her first stroke. Another fact which aroused comment was that the rain, which came on heavily at intervals, seemed to have little effect on the steadiness of the ladies' game, few seemed to be put off in any way, although the very heavy shower about 2.30 p.m. must have proved a serious handicap for the last half dozen players coming home at that hour.

Miss Molly McBride, Beaconsfield, was the winner of the driving competition, sending three straight, clean balls of the respective lengths of 166, 187 and 188 yards, totalling 571 yards. Mrs. H. D. Soper had second place, her distance being 524 yards on three drives of 183, 173 and 168 yards. Miss Phoebe Campbell, Royal Montreal, obtained the longest single drive, her first ball going 206 yards, her second stopped at 119 and a third at 183 brought her distance to 508 yards.

The approaching and putting competition resulted in a tie between Mrs. Hamilton Irwin, Royal Montreal, and Mrs. Stewart Saunders, Kanawaki, each taking 9. The play-off resulted in a win for Mrs. Irwin.

THE PROFESSIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

With two extremely well put together rounds of 74 and 76, Arthur Woodward, the clever professional of the Country Club, captured the professional championship.

Charlie Murray, Royal Montreal, proved to be the runner-up, but the sturdy Dixie player did not secure the second prize until he had played an extra nine holes, contending against his brother, Albert Murray, Kanawaki, and Karl Keffer, Royal Ottawa, the trio having tied at the termination of the championship round each with a total of 152 strokes.

In the play-off, Charlie Murray beat Keffer on the last green, the Royal Montreal professional finishing the inner course in 37, while Keffer required an extra stroke, a missed putt on the ninth green disposing of the Royal Ottawa's chances.

Albert Murray failed to play up to his own standard in the extra holes. Whatever chance he had was lost by a misadventure on the fourth green. A

THE AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP

On Saturday, playing excellent golf, that sterling Scottish player, Mr. T. B. Reith, in a field comprising 96 entries, won the Amateur Championship of the Province. His first round of 80 was followed up by a clinking second round of 76, his total of 156 just beating his club mate, Mr. R. C. Smith, out by a stroke. Mr. Reith's victory was a particularly popular one. Since coming to this country he has always just missed winning stellar honours. It is generally conceded on his form he should have more than once captured the Canadian Amateur. His best performance previously was his 171 in the Open Championship at the Royal Ottawa in 1906. He tied for runner-up honours then with George Cumming and Robertson, who were all one stroke behind C. R. Murray, who won the Championship with a score of 170. Mr. Reith also won the Montreal and District Championship in 1914.

It was very much a Beaconsfield day, as Mr. R. C. Smith, the runner-up, is a member of that club, whilst another Beaconsfield man, Mr. Sidney Morgan, tied for third place, only to lose the prize in the play-off with Mr. G. H. Turpin, of The Royal Montreal.

The Canadian 1919 Champion, Mr. W. McLuckie, started off with a weak round of 84, but came back in the afternoon with a fine 76 for a total of 160.

The first place in the handicap competition fell to Mr. A. J. Veysey, Kanawaki, who scored 81 and 83, a total of 164, less 20, a net of 144. Mr. R. C. Smith, Beaconsfield, had the lowest net score, 157, less 16, net 141, but having taken a prize as runner-up, gave way to the next low score.

Mr. J. H. McCulloch, Beaconsfield, son of the Hon. Secretary of The Royal Canadian Golf Association, tied with Morgan for second place, but as Morgan had taken the prize for the best eighteen holes, the second handicap prize fell to McCulloch, whose rounds were each 83, a total of 166, reduced by a handicap of 20 to 146. The third prize in this competition went to A. Huff, Jr., Country Club, son of the President of The Quebec Golf Association, who played in 96 and 84, a total of 180, which a handicap of 26 brought down to 154.

The team match was won by Royal Montreal No. 1, with Beaconsfield No. 1 in second place.

The arrangements throughout the two days' tournament were simply perfect and redounded greatly to the credit of the Country Club officials who were simply indefatigable in looking after the wants of the record field of entrants.

THE BRITISH OPEN

George Duncan Comes From Behind and Wins Classic. Hagen, U.S. Champion, 26 Strokes Behind the Winner.

ON the wind-swept, sea-side course at Deal, last month Walter Hagen, the much vaunted U. S. Open Champion, came a miserable cropper and was hopelessly beaten by George Duncan and nearly a score of other British players, not forgetting the Amateur Champion, Mr. Cyril J. Tolley, who was three strokes ahead of him. The best Hagen could do was an average of 82 for the four rounds. Barnes, on the other hand, the only other U.S. entrant, did exceedingly well. He had rounds of 79, 74, 77 and 78, and was only 5 strokes back of Duncan. He was in fifth place. Barnes is, of course, an Englishman, but he developed his game in the States.

The Thistle has once again come into her golfing own, for both the champion and runner-up in the 1920 championship are Scottish born. George Duncan, who came from behind and with two brilliant rounds the last day of 71 and 72, won out the championship, is generally recognized as one of the most finished golfers in the world, but previously he has always just failed to land the major event. For instance, in 1910 at St. Andrews, with a 73, 77 and 71, the latter the record for the celebrated old course, he was leading the field handily, when he came a cropper in the fourth round, piling up an 83 and allowing Braid and Herd to land in first and second place respectively. That 1910 championship should easily have been his. He has a large number of important tournaments and competitions to his credit other than the Open, including the Open Championship of Pennsylvania, he having visited the States in 1911. The following year he annexed the Open Championship of Belgium, and in 1913 the French Championship. He is 37 years of age and was born in Aberdeenshire. He has always been known as "the brilliant but erratic Duncan," but this appellation will no longer apply to him. He is to-day the world's champion golfer and has displaced for this year at least, Abe Mitchell, his great rival, who was generally conceded last season to be slightly the better player of the two.

Sandy Herd, another Scotchman, who was in second place, is 52 years of age. He won the Open Championship in 1902, and this makes the fourth time he has been runner-up to the Champion. "Sandy," for his years, is possibly the greatest little golfer anywhere to-day.

For the first time since 1894 the great triumvirate, Vardon, Taylor and Braid, failed to be among the leading half dozen competitors. Their record has been a glorious one, but it would seem that advancing years are at last exacting their toll, although for that matter, Herd is some two years older than any member of the illustrious three.

Abe Mitchell, who led the field at the end of the 36 holes on the first day with 147, or 6 strokes ahead of Barnes, went to the bad and with 160 for the double round, finished fourth with 307. His downfall was tragic. He appeared nervous at the start, and after messing up the first three holes, he took an eight on the fifth and absolutely spoiled his score, and as it turned out, killed his chance for the title.

George Duncan, who was thirteen strokes behind when play began the second morning, rose to great heights, and with two brilliant rounds of 71 and 72, for a total of 143, fought his way to the front and earned the high honour by the power of his fighting spirit—and the power, too, of the soundest kind of golf. His victory was very popular.

The following were the leading scores:

Names.	1st day	2nd day	Total
George Duncan	160	143	303
Alex. Herd	153	152	305
Edward Ray	155	151	306

Wingate was in 8th place with 313, Horne (who accepted a position with Brantford this season, but owing to passport troubles, was unable to come out), and Compton and Buckie had 315; J. H. Taylor with a 159 and 157 was 12th with 316; Harry Vardon 13th with 318, made up of two 159's, Bannister also having 318; James Braid was 15th with 159-161=320; Arnaud Massy, former Open and French Champion, was 16th with 324; Cyril Tolley, the Amateur Champion, 17th with 326 and Walter Hagen, U. S. Champion, with a 166 and 163 in 18th place with 329, or 26 strokes back of Duncan.

Abe Mitchell, during the Championship, made a hole-in-one. This has been generally reputed as a record in an Open Championship, but this is not so. The feat has been accomplished before by Jamie Anderson in 1878. Mr. Hilton in 1892 and D. Brown in 1902. Anderson and Hilton both won the Championship.

By way of making some amends for his failure in the British Open July 7th, Hagen won the French Open Championship at Versailles. Hagen tied with the Frenchman, Lafitte, and won in the play off 150 to 154. A large number of English cracks competed, but not Vardon, Ray or Barnes. This French course is not considered altogether a really first-class test of championship golf.

THE GOLF SWING AND ITS MOTIONS

(By J. B. Kinnear, Professional, Alcrest Golf Club, Winnipeg)

PERHAPS it may be a little interesting to our readers, and the golfing public, to illustrate in one of your valuable columns, the real golfing swing, with all its extraordinary motions, leading up to the actual hit, in golf.

How many ardent golfers in our great community, are aware of all the facts of this important swing; even today the majority of good golfers are still asking themselves, those confounded "Hows," when anything goes wrong with their usual game on the links. But indeed it is a given fact, that the player who is conscious of all those wrong doings, has undoubtedly a far greater opportunity to rectify matters, although at the same time the man who knows, may not in himself be a golf champion, yet the theory of the game is unquestionably worth looking into.

Now then, success in golf, and all bat and ball games chiefly depends on the free working of the arms, under the guidance of the eyes, for most faults in golf can be traced to the failure of the arms to work together; and the "hurry" of the body. The actual hit in the golf swing is mainly performed by the right elbow blow only. On nearing the top of the golf swing, the left wrist and elbow straighten; but, following this, the only motion of this arm, except for twists of the forearm, is now from the shoulder point. The idea that it is the left arm, which mainly communicates the power to the blow, has arisen from a confusion between stress and strain. In the muscles of the left wrist and forearm there is certainly a big strain throughout the swing, but this is not by any means a hitting force, but merely a restraining force.

The main point in the golf swing is easily remembered by using the stiff left forearm, and the holding or grip by the left hand on the club. While this is in motion, the loosed muscles of the right arm take charge towards the guidance of the club, therefore stiff muscles give anything but a free hit, more especially with that part near the little finger of the right hand, so now it is essential that we grip mainly with the left hand, at the same time helping the left wrist and forearm to work accordingly.

In the back swing, a good many players do move the club, chiefly by the left arm, but they do not bring it down so, yet most of them think they do.

In the early stages of the downward swing the body moves as fast as the arms, perhaps faster, and by the time the club is in a hitting position, it has been brought down almost as much by body turn as by arm action.

The club comes through at a tremendous pace, and provided the eyes are really concentrated on the ball till then, they cannot move till the club head has come through, after the impact.

It is absolutely impossible to see impact, even though the eyes are on the ball, simply because the pace of the club is too great, but nearing the actual impact, the arms then far outpace the body turn.

One must get the proper impulse at the proper time, if not, this will produce a sense of discomfort, so that all mental concentration on the ball is lost completely. Now the only reason why the eyes can be removed from the ball is indeed the fact just mentioned, for, taking the eyes off the ball is hardly ever the primary cause of any particular bad shot.

Looking up at the short game, is also a great trouble in golf, but this is not caused by any anxiety to see where the ball goes, but the complete failure of the right wrist and elbow to bring the club down properly, as it was taken up in the backward motion.

In teaching the swing from a professional's point of view, it is of far more importance to have his pupil swing properly with control and then golf cannot be played to his entire satisfaction, or even to the pro's.

Before closing this article, I would like to draw attention to the playing of a particular shot from out of the rough. This exhibits arm work in golf at its best; to smash at the ball wildly is ridiculous, for this will cause a big heave of the shoulders, by which pace to the club cannot be obtained, and the right arm being in too stiff a position to come quickly through; so it is most important to all who follow the game to pay most attention to the minor points in this game of golf.

Every professional will find a few pupils who to speak candidly will never be able to play golf, as regards many important things in the game, but then it is up to the pro. in question to teach he or she in what way he thinks they may get the satisfaction of the sport, for every individual is not gifted with the proper body movement and instinct. So it really and honestly lies with the pupil to adopt the professional's coaching to their own ability and get the best they can out of the game.

timing, than by actual ball hitting, for certainly the swing is essential, till

Flag is Presented and Unfurled at Vancouver Club

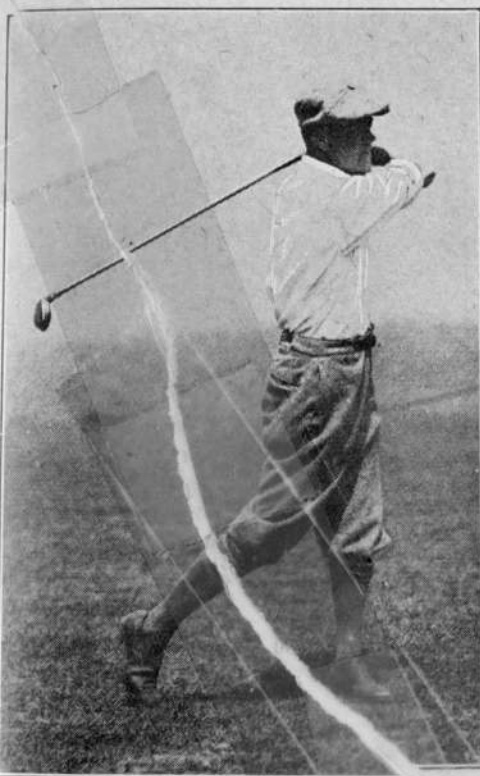

DOMINION DAY was the scene of a large attendance at the Vancouver Golf and Country Club to witness the presentation of a very handsome flag presented by Mrs. C. H. Nicholson, wife of the president of the club. In the absence of Capt. Nicholson in the east, Mr. C. S. Battle was spokesman. The flagstaff was cut on the golf grounds but was finished and erected through the generosity of Mr. I. Hopkins, general manager B. C. Marine, while a beautiful national flag was the gift of Mrs. Nicholson. Mr. Battle made reference to the generous gifts and expressed the regret of all that the president of the club was away on a very sad mission. It was, however, said Mr. Battle, most fitting that this flag should be raised to the masthead on Canada's national day and he believed it would be respected and honored throughout the ages. On behalf of the club the honorary president spoke of the gratitude of the members for such a magnificent gift and amid much cheering Mrs. Nicholson was asked to unfurl the flag, which was gracefully done. The ceremony was concluded with cheers for Mrs. Nicholson and Mr. Hopkins.

Quite a large gallery followed the pros. and were treated to many fine shots. Cumming is the doyan of the professionals of Canada, having occupied his present position for twenty years. He is known from Coast to Coast and has trained many pros. who are now occupying prominent positions throughout Canada.

Freddie Rickwood, of the new Summit Club, made a good showing in spite of his seven years' absence from professional tournaments. He enlisted in 1914, while at the St. John, N.B., Club, and this is his first season at the North End Club. He is also handicapped by a bad foot, as a result of his service overseas.

Pritchard, of the Mississauga Club, who was runner-up last year, had to be content with seventh place this year. Considerable regret was expressed that Percy Barrett, the professional at Weston, was unable to play on account of illness. Senieur, of Scarborough, was the only other absentee among those entered for the big event.

The following were the scores in the Mixed Foursomes: Seymour Lyon and Miss Pepler (Toronto), had the best gross, it will be noticed—a capital 83. Mr. F. Thompson and Miss G. Applegath, of Mississauga, however, with a 90 less 20, net 70, won out the event by four strokes over Seymour and his partner.

There was an even hundred entrants for the Amateur championship on Saturday, which was again won by that brilliant Mississauga player, Mr. W. J. Thompson. He was given a battle royal, however, for the honours by his brother, Frank and Mr. John Hadden, of the Toronto Club, who finished tie with 152 strokes, one more than the champion. In the play-off that followed, Mr. Hadden won by 38 to 42, over nine holes. Mr. George S. Lyon, who shared with Mr. W. Thompson the honour of having the smallest handicap, 3 strokes in 18 holes, was fourth in the championship event with a gross of 157.

Mr. Thompson clinched the championship with a 3 on the last green, holing out a 50-foot putt, after being in trouble with his first shot.

The record in competition of the course, both amateur and professional, was broken with a score of 72, made by Mr. Frank Thompson in his afternoon round. The record in competition was previously held by Mr. T. B. Reith and Karl Keffer with a 73. The three best net scores (36 holes), for prizes were won by Mr. J. M. Lyle, of Toronto, with 138 net; Mr. V. G. Wood, of Toronto, with a 141 net; and Mr. Doug. Wood, of Rosedale, with 145 net, Thompson and Hadden having already won prizes, not being eligible.

At a meeting of the Captains of the various Toronto clubs, held the week of the Tournament, it was decided to purchase a challenge shield to be awarded the player winning the amateur championship. His name will be engraved upon it and it will become the property for one year of the club he represents. Mr. Thompson, therefore, has the honour of first having his name inscribed on the shield and Mississauga the honour of being the first club custodian of the trophy.

THE C. P. G. A.

THE Canadian Professional Golfers' Association is very much alive these days, and now includes in its ranks all the golfers of note, although there are a number of the profession on the Pacific Coast who ought to come in and who would be very welcome. The following fifteen well known pros. have become members since last season:

N. S. Foley, Senneville Country Club; George Ayton, Regina Golf Club; Dave Cuthbert, Grand Mere Golf Club; S. W. Lingard, Riverside Golf Club; J. B. Kinnear, Alcrest Golf Club; Geo. Daniel, Winnipeg; Frank

Adams, Winnipeg; W. C. Grant, Sherbrooke Golf Club; Eli Hitchin, recently of Ealing, England; Harvey Towlson, Hunt and Motor Club, Ottawa; Wm. Gunn, Woodstock; A. C. Banks, Guelph; W. Brazier, Stratford; O. Brault, Truro; Fred Rickwood, Summit Golf Club.

All pros. who are not yet members, should get in touch with Karl Keffer, the Hon. Secretary, care of The Royal Ottawa.

The venue of the 1920 championship has not yet been decided upon, but it will probably be held over the green of The Royal Ottawa.

THE OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Will be held at Rivermead, Ottawa, Thursday and Friday, August 25th and 26th—Course in Superb Shape.

IT has been decided to hold the Open Championship of Canada at Rivermead, Ottawa, Thursday and Friday, August 25th and 26th, and the event is being eagerly anticipated by professionals from all parts of Canada, whilst entries are also expected from a number of the leading professionals of the United States. Many of the leading amateurs will also participate. A determined effort is being made to secure the presence of Vardon and Ray, and if they come the 1920 Open will undoubtedly be the finest golf event ever staged in Canada.

Mr. A. E. Corrigan, chairman of of Rivermead's Green Committee, was in Toronto the latter part of last week and immediately got into communication with Mr. Peterson, of New York, who is managing the tour of the famous British experts. It is just possible if the 26th and 27th of August conflict with Vardon and Ray's plans that Rivermead officials will ask for a change of dates. Mr. B. L. Anderson, the Hon. Secretary of The Royal Canadian Golf Association, is holding the official programme in the meantime. It is expected definite word will be received from New York in a day or so, and then the programmes will be mailed to all the clubs in Canada and some of the prominent clubs in the States.

The Rivermead course is in superb shape for the event. It is a sporting course of 6,140 yards, the card reading as follows: No. 1, 405 yards; No. 2, 410 yards; No. 3, 245 yards; No. 4, 390 yards; No. 5, 270 yards; No. 6, 135 yards; No. 7, 310 yards; No. 8, 475 yards; No. 9, 230 yards; total out, 2,870 yards. No. 10, 255 yards; No. 11, 525 yards; No. 12, 300 yards; No. 13, 425 yards; No. 14, 355 yards; No. 15, 140 yards; No. 16, 325 yards; No. 17, 555 yards; No. 18, 390 yards; total in, 3,270 yards. Grand total, 6,140 yards.

Since last year 60 new traps and bunkers have been placed in and 25 new tees built, there being two tees to every hole. Water has also been laid on to every tee.

Mr. Corrigan claims that the fair-greens and greens of Rivermead are to-day unexcelled anywhere in Canada, and a "Canadian Golfer" representative who was in Ottawa last week confirms this statement to the limit. He is most enthusiastic about the course.

Karl Keffer, the pro. at The Royal Ottawa and Secretary of The Canadian Professional Golf Association, writes the Editor:

"I had a game over the Rivermead course recently and I venture to say that few courses can provide a more delightful brand of golf under perfect conditions than that which you will find there. The course is in wonderful condition at the present time and will prove a worthy setting for the big event to be staged there. Fairway and greens could not be improved upon. The distance is now 6,140 yards in length. A number of well placed bunkers have been built and I believe that considerable more are to be placed and completed before August. The Rivermead Green Committee and members are very enthusiastic about this course and are looking forward to seeing all the top-notchers in this country, as well as the leading exponents of golf in the professional ranks from across the border play over it when the Open Championship is held there on August 25th and 26th. The links are very handy to the city, twenty-five minutes on the car will take you there, and I think the pros. are in for a great golfing treat in taking in the Open at the Rivermead Golf Club."

A very strong local committee has been appointed to look after the Tournament and Rivermead is sparing no effort to make the event a record one in every respect.

Play will start each morning at 9 o'clock, 18 holes, and 2.30 in the afternoon, 18 holes, or a total of 72 holes for the two days. The first prize, $100 and gold medal; second prize, $75 and silver medal; third prize, $50; fourth prize $25; fifth prize, $10, and sixth prize $5.

The Association will present a gold medal for the best amateur score. Amateurs winning any of the prizes will receive the equivalent in plate.

Entries should be sent to Mr. B. L. Anderson, Secretary of The Royal Can-

Mr. W. A. Henry, K.C., Halifax, reports a very extraordinary incident recently. He was trying to find his opponent's ball in rather short, thick grass. He became aware that he had tramped on it, and on looking down in the spot could not find it, but at the same time he had felt something strike him on the outside of the ankle and looking down saw the ball resting in the cuff of his trousers. Mr. Henry must have stepped on the side of the ball in such a way that it snapped up into the air and caught as indicated.

A particularly interesting match last month in Montreal was that between the ladies of Beaconsfield and the ladies of The Royal Ottawa. The teams were headed respectively by Miss Kate Robertson, who made Miss Ada Maekenzie of Toronto, play an extra hole to win the Canadian Ladies' Championship last September, and Mrs. Frank Ahearn, lady champion of The Royal Ottawa, who also made a good showing in the Canadian Championship last year. Beaconsfield, by the close margin of two points, won from the visiting team.

In connection with the U. S. Open at Toledo, it is quite probable a number of prominent Canadian pros. will enter for this stellar event of the season. George Cumming, the Toronto pro., has received a personal letter from Mr.

Jermain, of Toledo, ex-officio member of all the Championship Committees, inviting him to Toledo and asking him to especially bring with him Karl Keffer, of Ottawa, C. R. Murray and A. H. Murray, of Montreal, W. M. Freeman, of Lambton, Nicol Thompson, of Hamilton, and any others he may suggest. This would be a very strong Canadian contingent. From the West, too, several pros. might very well take a "shy" at the premier honors of the continent. There are some mighty fine professionals west of Port Arthur. The dates of the big show at Toledo are August 10th-13th, over the 6,569 yard course of the Inverness Club, which has recently been thoroughly overhauled and bunkered and trapped up to the eyebrows.

T. C. McGregor, formerly of London, England, now of the Philippines, is now the 1920 golf champion of the islands. Smith, who was second to McGregor, and it was his fine showing that was really the feature of the tournament. Smith has been playing the game only two years, but he broke the Manilla Golf Club's record for 18 holes with a 71. Par for the course is 68.

All the summer resort courses report this summer an unparalleled interest in golf. In Muskoka the many links there are crowded from morning till night. A similar story comes from Metis, Murray Bay and other well known places, whilst St. Andrews, N.B., has a record number of golfers treading its verdant fairgreens. The championships at St. Andrews will start on August 16th. They attract a very high-class field of golfers, especially from the Montreal District and Boston, Philadelphia and New York. Lord and Brantford golfers had a most delightful week-end trip July 9th-10th, when a Western Ontario League match was played with Stratford, resulting in 5 points to 3 for Brantford, whilst at Sarnia the following day the team went down to defeat 9 to 2. Mr. Hoblitzell, in his match with Mr. Champion, put on a 36 the first round, or par golf. Brantford golfers speak in the highest terms of the Sarnia course, which they consider possibly the best 9-hole course to-day in Ontario. The visitors were most hospitably entertained both at Stratford and Sarnia.

The Directors of the Brantford Golf and Country Club are to be heartily congratulated on the progressive spirit they have displayed this season. Not content with spending over $30,000 on the improvements to the club house, which are now well under way to completion, last month they decided to round out the whole golfing proposition and start right to work on building an additional 9 holes and improving the present 9. The well known firm of Thompson, Cumming and Thompson, Toronto, has been given the contract and have now 40 men at work, building new greens and tees and whipping the newly acquired property into shape. Brantford next season will have an 18-hole course of great character and a most artistic club house.

Davie Black, professional at Shaughnessy Heights' Golf Club, Vancouver, formerly of Rivermead, Ottawa, equalled the golf course record held by Knox Walkem since September last, when in a friendly game with W. A. McLachlan, June 25th, he went round in 69. The Shaughnessy Heights' course is 5,747 yards, with a par of 72. Black's performance was the result of steady and consistent golf. With the exception of one penalty, in which he lost a stroke at the twelfth hole after going into the ditch, he was on line the entire route. His best hole was probably the 17th.

Mr. H. T. Fairley, of Scarborough, has returned from a visit to his old home in Australia. He tells the "Canadian golfer" that there are a number of fine golfers and fine golf clubs in the land of the Kangaroo. The Royal Melbourne course he considers the equal of any in Canada. The young professional, Kirkwood, he states is a wizard. He plays his mashie like J. H. Taylor, and frequently gets under the seventies on really championship courses. Mr. Fairley thinks that he is a coming Open Champion. He is a product of Australian golf, having been born there.

"HOLES-IN-ONE"

Several More Golfers Join the Elect and Incidentally Secure a Year's Subscription to the "Canadian Golfer"

It looks as though last season's record of 43 holes-in-one will be equalled again this year on Canadian courses. Merrily are the "One-ers" coming along.

Playing June 6th on the beautiful Colwood course at Victoria, B.C., Mr. Alex. K. Robertson, of the Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club, Vancouver, made the 7th hole in one. Mrs. Robertson was playing with him at the time and had the pleasure of seeing her husband perform the notable feat.

Mr. Harcourt Powell, a member of the Grand Mere Golf Club, Quebec, is the first amateur player to make a hole-in-one on that course. The shot was made June 11th while Powell was playing No. 18 hole, which is about 130 yards from the tee. The tee is situated on the edge of a deep gully and the green is on top of a mound on the same level across the gully. Mr. Powell's shot was made with a mashie, and the ball landed on the green a few feet from the pin and gently rolled in the cup. The Clubhouse verandah gallery saw the shot and Mr. Powell was deluged with requests for invitations to be in on the proper celebration of the feat. The hole in practically the same form, was No. 9 of the old course, and in 1917 the club professional, Harry Pidduck, holed out in one. This instance, and that of Mr. Powell's, are the only two of a hole-in-one on the Grand Mere links. Congratulations.

It is rarely that that 18th hole in Lambton has been made in one—probably only once before—but on June 27th, playing with Mr. John Littlejohn, of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Toronto, Mr. A. V. Trimble, of the Weston Club, Toronto, turned the trick. The 18th at Lambton is a nifty little shot of 225 yards. Good work.

Playing at the Brightwood Golf and Country Club, Dartmouth, N. S., on June 12th, Mr. J. Scott Chisholm made the fourth hole in one. He was playing with Mr. McKinley at the time. A Nova Scotian "One-er" is particularly welcome.

And now here is Collingwood, Ontario, for the first time. The Punch Bowl there is a blind hole of 96 yards and Mr. J. J. Swan registered a one here the first week in July. Mr. W. E. Vernon and Mr. Mac McPherson witnessed the performance.

Total Holes-in-One to date, twelve.
